

Sept. 14 Date Of Huge Sales Rally In City

DeLoss Walker, Associate Editor of Liberty, to Talk
10,000 EXPECTED
Pierce Park Is Site; Sparkling Entertainment Assured

Appleton's huge "Sales Mean Jobs" meeting will be held Wednesday evening, Sept. 14, it was decided today when DeLoss Walker, associate editor of Liberty magazine, wired acceptance of an invitation to speak here on that night.

Walker notified the Appleton Chamber of Commerce in a telegram sent from his Chicago office today that he would "be glad to" address the "Sales Mean Jobs" rally at Pierce park.

A powerful, energetic speaker who often peels off his coat to get more action, Walker has inspired crowds at many of the outstanding "Sales Mean Jobs" rallies held throughout the nation.

Preparations for this big, enthusiastic meeting are being rushed. At least 10,000 persons are expected to the park that evening, and seating and parking accommodations will be greatly increased.

Mumm's Entertainers
The entertainment program will be provided by Edward Mumm's vaudevilleans who have attracted thousands of persons to the park this summer. Sponsors of the Mumm program will give over the entire evening to the "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade.

More than 50 men and women as members are zealously working to make the mass meeting and the crusade a typical Appleton success. Not in years have committee workers shown such enthusiasm as they are displaying in this effort.

The Mumm program, already well known in the entire Fox river valley, will be augmented for the rally. The manager is arranging to bring in radio and vaudeville stars and to provide features that will thrill and amuse the thousands attending.

Wide Publicity
Buttons, banners, and placards will be used to call attention to the rally and to the crusade, and thousands of buttons will be distributed at the meeting.

Extra bleachers will be set up in the park to seat at least 7,500 persons and it is believed almost many will remain in their automobiles. Loud speakers will relay the program to every section of the park.

The Appleton Chamber of Commerce voted to sponsor a "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade in the city several weeks ago after studying the sensational success of the drive in other cities throughout the land.

Aiming at energizing salesmen and industry on the offensive, and restoring confidence to the consumer, the crusade had its birth in Lincoln, Neb., in May of this year.

Gained Quick Recognition
It caught the attention and then the allegiance of the executive, the salesman, and the man on the street and has become a powerful force moving toward economic and social betterment. Successful crusades have been waged in Wisconsin cities among them Milwaukee, Kenosha, Racine, Sheboygan, and Neenah-Menasha.

Alex O. Benz is general chairman for the Appleton rally. He has a general committee operating with him and sub-committees, namely, steering, program, publicity and arrangements. Frequent, spirited meetings have been held by the various groups for several weeks.

The "Sales Mean Jobs" cry has already been taken up in the city. It has become a popular topic of discussion and its economic soundness is being recognized by more.

Dies Demands Reopening of Bridges Case

Urges Secretary Perkins To Resume Deportation Proceedings
CLOSED SINCE APRIL

Finds No Justification for Delaying Trial of CIO Leader

Washington—(U)—Chairman Dies (D-Texas) of the house committee investigating un-Americanism demanded today that Secretary Perkins resume deportation proceedings at once against Harry Bridges, CIO maritime leader on the west coast.

Declaring he could find no justification for postponing the case, Dies said delay might place witnesses out of reach, if this had not happened already.

Proceedings against Bridges were suspended April 20 by the labor department pending a supreme court ruling in a case involving James G. Strecker of Hot Springs, Ark. Immigration Commissioner James L. Houghtaling had said that decision might prevent Bridges' deportation.

The Orleans circuit court had stopped deportation of Strecker on the ground that the law does not forbid aliens to belong to "the communist or any other party except one which teaches overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States."

"I can not see how the Strecker case would have any bearing upon the Harry Bridges case since the facts are dissimilar," Dies declared.

The committee chairman, who said a majority of the members had authorized him to write Miss Perkins, quoted extensively from labor department records about Bridges. Names of witnesses were not disclosed at the department's request.

Dies said R. P. Bonham, immigration director at Seattle, had protested against suspension of the case, but was reprimanded by Houghtaling on the ground that he had imperfect knowledge of the situation.

A letter from Bonham to Houghtaling May 11 was quoted by Dies as follows:

"The witnesses we had assembled for the Bridges hearing had among them some former functionaries of the (Communist) party who... would have testified to the Communist party being the American section of the communist (Communist International) and to the definite commitment to force and violence in bringing about the overthrow of our government."

Writes Letter
Dies said Bonham wrote Edward J. Shaughnessy, deputy immigration commissioner, Sept. 23:

"I believe it proper that I acquaint the central office with the fact that I interviewed Mr. Bridges some time ago... he boasted he

Union Drifting
Away From Peace

Breach Continues to Widen Between Martin, Lewis

Detroit—(U)—The United Automobile Workers Union (CIO), rocked by its own disputes and now splitting over John L. Lewis' true plan, drifted further from peace today while President Homer Martin counted new support for his forces.

What once was a fight largely confined to U.A.W.A. circles appeared to be developing unmistakable signs of a duel between the union president and the CIO chieftain.

An open break between the two labor leaders was emphasized by Martin's sharp criticism of Lewis' tactics in trying to end the union's factional war. To this Martin added his admission of a "thoroughly strained" relationship between himself and Lewis.

While Martin has consented to present Lewis' plan before a future meeting of the U.A.W.A.'s international executive board, he left little doubt of his own attitude. The Lewis plan counsels reinstatement of the officers ousted in Martin's "communist purge."

"That," Martin said, "was no great innovation. We could have gotten that in the beginning."

LaFollette Proclaims Soil Conservation Day

Madison—(U)—Governor LaFollette has proclaimed Thursday, Sept. 22, as soil conservation day.

"Wisconsin's most valuable natural resource is fertile soil," he declared.

LUMBERMAN HONORED

Milwaukee—(U)—The Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers association honored A. L. Osborn, Oshkosh, today as dean of the lumber business in Wisconsin and Michigan at a luncheon in celebration of his eightieth birthday.

Osborn, born on a Wisconsin farm, was a schoolmaster, lawyer and legislator before entering the lumber business.

During the NRA period, his fellow lumbermen recalled, Osborn's plain speaking and energetic statements at code meetings earned him in Washington the nickname "Cap" Ricks, after the character created by Peter B. Kyne.

British, French Allied To Check Hitler Action As War Menaces Europe

Czechoslovakia Trying To Adjust Sudeten German Dispute
DISCUSS 'NEW PLAN'
Police Ordered to Guard Against Recurrence Of Brawls

Praha—(U)—While the British cabinet considered grave questions of peace or war, the Czechoslovak cabinet settled down today to the old sudeten German dispute which it treated as a domestic affair.

This capital took the attitude that the broad international aspects of the problem were beyond its scope but that its contribution to finding a way out of the difficulty which disturbs Europe was a speedy adjustment of the minorities issue.

The Czechoslovak ministers met at Kolowrat palace to discuss the long-awaited "new plan" to meet the demand of 500,000 sudeten Germans for territorial autonomy.

The foreign office admitted the plan had not yet been submitted in its entirety to the nazi-supported sudeten German party but that Konrad Henlein, the sudeten German leader, knew its broad features.

The sudeten Germans consequently were able to justify their delay in making known their attitude toward government negotiations with the comment they could not say yes or no to proposals unknown to them.

But it was known that Viscount Runciman, the unofficial British mediator in the minorities dispute, hoped he would get some hint from Henlein today or tomorrow as to whether the general trend of the reforms being considered by the state might be acceptable. Runciman saw President Benes last night.

"Approach Decisive Hour"
Czechoslovak officials ordered police in sudeten German areas to alert, discreet watch against a recurrence of brawls that could be magnified to serious proportions during the sudeten German minorities dispute.

Nothing of serious character had occurred yet, officials said after a dozen bar room fights in as many communities last night, but they added that a series of similar incidents would be of grave concern.

Henlein yesterday visited a dozen sudeten villages, and although he made no formal addresses he did tell village councilors and mayors that "we approach the decisive hour. Be true to your German heritage. Have confidence in your party leadership."

LaFollette Accepts Garey Resignation

Madison—(U)—Governor LaFollette accepted today the resignation of A. E. Garey as director of the state bureau of personnel, effective Oct. 1.

Garey asked to be relieved several weeks ago so that he might accept the position of civil service counsel for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

The governor did not announce when would succeed Garey, but declared arrangements would be made for his retirement. In the past A. J. Opstedal, assistant personnel director, and Paul C. Winner, head of the state employment service, have directed affairs of the bureau during Garey's absences.

Protests Project to Develop River Power

Milwaukee—(U)—Peter T. Schoemann, president of the AFL building trades union, announced last night he had secured protest to Henry L. Ickes, PWA administrator, regarding the proposed $25,000,000 hydroelectric and flood control program in the Wisconsin and Fox river valleys.

Schoemann said earmarking of the big sum threatened to leave Milwaukee and other parts of the state without PWA aid. His wired protest to the secretary of the interior read:

"The river projects are worthy, but not important enough to tie up all available PWA funds in the state."

Jap Troops Hammer At Chinese Defense

Army in Maneuvers Near German Border as France Speeds Defense Industry

Paris—(U)—While motorized units of the French army began maneuvers close to the German border, the cabinet today formally ratified a decree increasing the hours of labor in national defense industries.

The decree immediately lengthened working hours in national defense factories, in public services, and in plants working for "the public safety." At the same time it gave the government the power to abandon the 40-hour week in every industry in France if necessary.

A communiqué announced the cabinet unanimously approved the declarations of Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and the precise definitions which he formulated concerning French policy as well as instructions he sent in this regard to our representatives abroad.

The communiqué did not specify the nature of these instructions.

GERMAN NAVY ACTIVE

Berlin—(U)—Germany's rebuilt navy is holding maneuvers in the North sea, it was disclosed today while preliminary army maneuvers continued in various parts of the country and Chancellor Adolf Hitler inspected fortifications along the French and Swiss borders.

The maneuvers began Friday and may last until the middle of September, the navy ministry said. They were described as "routine," having no connection with the central European crisis.

The British fleet has been ordered to the North sea for "certain technical exercises" beginning Sept. 6, the day after the maneuvers begin. The day after the maneuvers begin, the British fleet will be in the North sea.

Nazi officials fixed their attention today on the emergency session of British cabinet ministers, contending Britain had organized a dramatic build-up to put blame on

Investigate Jail Break at St. Louis

Recapture Third Federal Prisoner Within Few Blocks of Prison

St. Louis—(U)—Two independent investigations into a daring break by three federal prisoners from the city jail were under way today, although federal authorities declared they were "satisfied" inasmuch as all were recaptured.

Director of Public Welfare Joseph Darst and Jail Warden Henry O'Meara questioned the two guards and elevator operator who were slugged by the prisoners as they made a dash for freedom.

Darst said there was no evidence to show the guards or the elevator operator at fault.

William Wright, 25, alias Robert Morgan of Davenport, Iowa, charged with postoffice robbery, federal auto theft and illegal possession of firearms, was the last prisoner to be recaptured.

Jap Troops Hammer At Chinese Defense

Shanghai—(U)—Behind severe air bombardments, Japanese troops engaged today in two flanking movements designed to blast Chinese defenders from strategic points blocking the Japanese advance up the Yangtze river toward Nanchang.

Roosevelt and Hull Eye European Crisis

Washington—(U)—President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull conferred this morning on the crisis in central Europe Hull, before going to the White House, talked over with advisers in the European division of the state department latest dispatches received from European capitals.

The consensus at the department was that Europe is passing through a real crisis which may come to a head about the time of the German nazi party meeting at Nuremberg within a fortnight.

Seversky Doesn't Expect New Mark To Stand Up Long

Plane Manufacturer Makes East-West Flight in 10 Hours, 3 Minutes

Los Angeles—(U)—Alexander P. de Seversky is certain the air record of 10 hours, 3 minutes and 7 seconds he set yesterday between New York and Los Angeles won't stand up long.

He says an army pursuit ship will be able to crack his record soon.

The little monoplane he ferried here for Jacqueline Cochran to fly in the Bendix dash can cruise 3,000 miles without refueling its wing-to-wing tanks and that, he observed, carried great military significance.

"We have learned from the war in Spain and China," Seversky said, "that bombardment craft are vulnerable to attack from the air unless properly convoyed. So the big flying fortress that cruises 5,000 miles must be accompanied by pursuit ships that can go equally as fast non-stop."

400-Mile-an-Hour Goal
Manufacturers, including Seversky, are working on such planes and soon after Christmas, he predicted, will crack the long-sought 400-mile-an-hour mark.

Seversky admitted he went "something more than 300 miles an hour" but "Jacky" will have to prove how fast the plane really is in her Bendix flight.

Seversky bettered Roscoe Turner's long-held record by one hour, 26 minutes and 53 seconds.

His average speed for the 2,600-mile flight was 260 miles an hour. He said he stopped in Kansas City, where he took on more gasoline, only to test the ship by re-distributing the load.

Probe May Bring 'Drastic Action'

Schedule Inquest to Fix Blame for Deaths of Four Convicts

Philadelphia—(U)—Governor George H. Earle announced today that Coroner Charles H. Herch would take most drastic action at an inquest "brought to death" blame for the "baking to death" of four hunger-striking convicts in the Philadelphia county prison.

Earle did not indicate what the "drastic action" would be but said the guilty would be punished.

At the same time, Earle issued orders to prevent recurrence anywhere in the state of prison conditions he said were "worse than the Black Hole of Calcutta."

He announced that beginning tomorrow state police, acting as agents of the welfare department, would inspect once a week the commonwealth's 70 county prisons and 500 local jails.

Earle made his statement at a press conference in the presence of Coroner Hersch, State Secretary of Welfare Charles I. Engard, and Dr. Martin P. Crane, coroner's physician.

Beloit, Wis.—(U)—Rock county's first grand jury in 35 years, which on June 14 indicted E. R. Branigan, Beloit politician and coal dealer, along with several others, today was under call of Special Prosecutor L. H. Smith to Jefferson, to report for additional duty on Friday, Sept. 2.

Smith said new evidence in several matters would be presented, but did not specify any cases.

Cabinets Draft Plans to Preserve Peace or Meet Conflict

SEE FINAL WARNING
France Prepares to Mobilize Industry for Armaments

London—(U)—The cabinets of the British-French entente, meeting in the face of the most realistic war menace since 1914, drafted urgent plans today to preserve world peace or to meet the conflict if it comes.

An emergency meeting of British ministers lasting nearly three hours was believed to have reached a limited decision on a calm but firm demand that Reichsfuehrer Hitler halt the German campaign of hate against Czechoslovakia and cooperate in efforts to reach a settlement of the dangerous sudeten German issue.

The French cabinet, meeting even longer, voted itself virtual power to mobilize French industry for war purposes.

Informed persons said there was every reason to believe that 18 of the 22 members of the British cabinet meeting at 10 Downing street likewise considered preparedness measures of a military and naval nature.

Coordinated Action
The fact that the French ministers also approved "instructions" to French envoys abroad indicated the probability of strong, coordinated diplomatic action by the two powers to impress on Hitler that any war resulting from German action holds suicidal possibilities.

The two great democracies—France and Britain—hold that the German chancellor's sponsorship of the sudeten Germans' demands for autonomy within Czechoslovakia is the chief threat to Europe's peace.

Charles Corbin, France's ambassador to Britain, was expected in London tonight to confer with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and presumably to bring an account of the Paris government's decisions.

During the afternoon Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador, visited 10 Downing street and conferred with both British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, here to report to his government.

Kennedy had just returned from a vacation on the French Riviera. An official announcement shortly after the British cabinet meeting said Lord Halifax made a full statement of the international situation, "and at the conclusion of the meeting the ministers expressed their entire agreement with the action already taken and the policy to be pursued in the future."

Prepare For Worst
No further cabinet meeting was scheduled for the immediate future, but the ministers agreed to remain in or near London.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain prepared to go to Balmoral, Scotland, tonight to report to King George VI.

Chamberlain and his ministers had virtually all shades of British opinion squarely lined them in a new policy of frank speaking to the reich and grave preparations for the worst.

For days British official quarters minimized the importance of preparing the

Chinese Planes Shoot Down Six Jap Bombers

Canton—(U)—Nineteen Chinese planes today to have shot down six Japanese bombers near Shuankwan, on the Canton-Hankow railway in northeastern Kwangtung province.

The Chinese planes, the first reported in Kwangtung in some time, swooped down from a high altitude, officials said, and surprised 30 Japanese bombers and pursuit ships participating in a raid.

Milwaukee Prober Alleges Breweries Operating Taverns

Milwaukee—(U)—Deputy Attorney General Louis Vaudreuil, who is conducting a secret "John Doe" inquiry here into business relations between brewers and tavernkeepers, declared today preliminary investigation indicated "certain brewers are right back in their old prohibition practices of maintaining taverns."

Eleven witnesses were called into district court chambers yesterday for questioning. Additional tavernkeepers were subpoenaed for appearance Friday afternoon, when the hearing will be resumed.

"If the law is not strong enough to keep the brewers strictly out of the retail business, recommendations will be made to the next legislature for changes," Vaudreuil said. "We expect to hold John Doe hearings over the state and dig out all the facts."

Wisconsin statutes forbid direct or indirect interest of a brewer in an outside licensed tavern. The state is investigating to determine whether equipment and property are being provided to tavernkeepers.

Roosevelt Campaign for Election of 'Liberals' Undergoing Primary Tests

By the Associated Press
President Roosevelt's campaign for election of "liberal" legislators was undergoing tests today in Democratic primaries on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.
Senators Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina and William G. McAdoo of California were up for re-nomination but only the latter bore presidential endorsement. Mr. Roosevelt had indicated clearly he hoped Smith would lose to Governor Olin D. Johnston, an avowed New Dealer.
The turbulent South Carolina contest was the first to be decided in which the chief executive had appealed, even indirectly, for the defeat of an incumbent congressman.
Dean of Senate
Smith, whose 30 years of service make him Democratic dean of the senate, opposed the court bill and various other administration proposals. He declared, however, he had supported more than 80 per cent of the president's program.
The outcome was being watched by politicians for its possible relationship to next month's primaries in nearby Georgia and Maryland, where the president openly advocated the defeat of Senators George and Tydings.
Johnston and Smith fought up to the time the polls opened for the support of followers of State Senator Edgar Brown, a New Dealer who withdrew from the race Saturday.
Brown, replying to Johnston's challenge to express his preference between the remaining candidates, sharply criticized the governor. "It is a state administration he long has been at odds."
In California, the president's policies did not provide so clear-cut an issue, for a $30-a-week pension proposal was the subject of much campaign debate.
Opposes Pension Plan
The 74-year-old McAdoo opposed the pension scheme, which was championed by Sheridan Downey, like the senator an avowed New Dealer. The other Democratic candidates for senator were John W. Preston, who said he wouldn't be a "rubber stamp," and James W. Mellen, anti-New Dealer.
The California contest received the attention of the senate campaign expenditures committee after Mellen accused McAdoo of permitting a "shakedown" of federal jobholders for campaign funds. McAdoo denied the charge.
Chairman Sheppard (D-Texas) said yesterday he believed that treasury employees in the state improperly had made voluntarily contributions to McAdoo's fund. Secretary Morgenthau, on the other hand, contended there was no law against such voluntary gifts. If there were an offense, he said, it was by the solicitor and not by the contributor.
Both California and South Carolina were choosing state tickets today. The former state had nine Democratic candidates for the gubernatorial nomination. South Carolina had eight.
Democratic victory in South Carolina is equivalent to election, but in California the Republicans were selecting a full slate. Ray L. Piley, veteran state official, and Philip Bancroft, farmer, were the principal contenders. Governor Frank P. Merriam sought re-nomination over Lieutenant Governor George Hatfield.

Heil Says State Must Cut Taxes

Claims Industries Have Been 'Driven' Out Of Wisconsin

Kenosha—(P)—Julius Heil, Republican candidate for governor, declared in a campaign address here last night that high taxes and reciprocal trade pacts have driven enough people out of Wisconsin to populate a city the size of Milwaukee.
Heil said that to his knowledge two industrial companies alone which were "driven" out of the state now employed close to 100,000 persons, "which means a total of nearly 500,000 when you include the families of the employees concerned." He added:
"General property tax delinquency, alone in Wisconsin, amounts to over $23,000,000. . . . The job we have in this state is to reduce taxes and protect both industry and the farmer requires a governor who knows business, and has the courage to apply business principles to government."

Consider Campaign To Increase Sales Of Natural Cheese

Monroe—(P)—A campaign to boost sales of natural cheese was under consideration today following a visit by Senator F. Ryan Duffy, called upon for help in improving the Swiss cheese market.
Duffy inspected cold storage holdings here yesterday and conferred with leaders in the industry.
He expressed the opinion something should be done to spur demand for natural rather than processed cheese. He also gave assurance he would re-stress in Washington his request for government purchase of Swiss for relief purposes.
Duffy advised against cheese makers' turning their milk into butter and said the butter market also is in a low condition.
Cheese producers sought and when dealers announced prices for Swiss of July manufacture had been reduced from two to three and one-half cents a pound. The new prices, according to grade, range from 10 to 16 cents a pound, lowest in several years.

Asks Lower Farm Interest Rates

Amlic Declares Farm Produce Consumers Need Purchasing Power

Madison, Wis. — (P)—Representative Thomas R. Amlic, Progressive candidate for United States senator, said last night that farm interest rates should be lowered.
He contended the government should make credit available at approximately the same rate the government pays.
Amlic said the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation had protected itself by purchasing surplus produce, leading to the prices and providing food for relief purposes. He said he asked Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to buy American, excess at 15 cents and butter at 35, to stabilize the market.
"The solution which I regard as most far-reaching and permanent," Amlic said, "is to provide buyers of agricultural products with the purchasing power to buy the farmer's produce off his farm at a reasonable price."

St. Joseph, Mo. — (P)—Officers of two Missouri counties were enroute today to Green Bay, Wis., to take into custody Oscar R. Anworth, wanted here on charges of kidnapping and assault with intent to commit a statutory offense involving a seven-year-old girl.

Renews Charges of Soliciting Funds Of WPA Workers

Stafford Says He Has Evidence Against Duffy For Senate Club

Milwaukee—(P)—William H. Stafford, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, reiterated today his charge the Duffy for Senate club solicited campaign funds from WPA workers and declared "the proof is certain."
Stafford's original statement was contained in a letter to Senator Sheppard of the senate committee charged with investigating campaign expenditures.
"I would enjoy nothing more than to have the senatorial investigation committee see who is telling the truth about the statements I made in my letters to the Duffy for Senate club from big business interests and also from WPA employees holding clerical positions," Stafford said today.
Has "Evidence"
"I have the proof for both the charges I made and I stand ready before any committee to substantiate the charges I made. I am not given to making idle charges without supporting evidence to back me up."
Taking notice of a question as to where he is getting the money for billboard advertisements in his behalf, Stafford said:
"The amount charged for these bill posters is $50 for which they (the Cream City Outdoor Bill Posting company) received my check. As the voters of Milwaukee know, and as I am informing the voters of the state in my campaign speeches, all my campaign expenses are paid by me and that I have always religiously followed the policy from the first time I sought public office to the present time of never having accepted campaign contributions."

Samp Charges New Deal Hurts Badger Farmers

La Crosse, Wis. — (P)—Edward J. Samp, Republican candidate for United States senator, said yesterday that Wisconsin industry has been threatened by competing industries subsidized or encouraged by the New Deal.
"The New Deal, with its strong array of southern Democrats," Samp said, "has left no stone unturned to build up the economic resources of that section, to the detriment of other parts of the country."
In trying to bring about a scarcity of cotton and grains the Washington administration is building up a surplus of dairy products at our expense. The southern farmer is told to use surplus acreage for dairying and is subsidized in the form of government benefits, while the Wisconsin farmer is penalized."

The Germans service was a communion service. Thursday, Sept. 1, will be registration day at the Zion parish school, the Rev. Marth has announced, the registration to begin at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Ladies Aid Thursday
Members of First English Lutheran church heard the Rev. F. C. Hunter speak on "No Neutrality" Sunday morning, and at Trinity English Lutheran church the Rev. D. E. Bosserman had as his subject, "Does Sincere Prayer Avail?" The Ladies Aid societies of both these congregations will meet at their respective churches Thursday afternoon.

The regular first Friday communion services will be held at all the Catholic churches this week.
"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the lesson-sermon at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday. The following correlative passages from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were included:
"The Christ was the Spirit which Jesus implied in His own statements: 'I am the way, the truth, and the life'; 'I and my Father are one.' This Christ, or divinity of the man Jesus, was his divine nature, the godliness which animated him. Divine Truth, Life, and Love gave Jesus authority over sin, sickness and death. His mission was to reveal the Science of celestial being, to prove what God is and what He does for man. Jesus established what he said by demonstration, thus making his acts of higher importance than his words. He proved what he taught."

Jimmy Fails to Mention Cronin Insurance Case

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—Jimmy Roosevelt has dropped the other shoe in the second and last installment of his story in Collier's without mentioning the Cronin insurance case in Boston. This is a very interesting case. In the Cronin suit it has been shown that the American Tobacco company placed a deposit of $2,000,000 in the National Shawmut bank of Boston and that in the course of time one of the insurance firms in which Jimmy was interested received a huge insurance order from the bank. The commission was about $400,000 a year.
The matter naturally calls attention to Jimmy's indignant denial that he would trade on the place which his father occupies. It also emphasizes his admission that he requested that George Washington Hill, the president of American Tobacco, give him special treatment on a visit to Jimmy's father at Warm Springs, Ga., as a means of promoting his insurance business.
Jimmy did write a $2,500,000 policy on Mr. Hill's life, but he explains that this was closed five months before Mr. Hill's visit to Warm Springs. On Nov. 29, 1932, he learned that Mr. Hill was to visit Franklin D. Roosevelt, and regarding Mr. Hill as "the possible source of more business (which he never got)," he sent a wire to Miss Marguerite le Hand, the secretary to the president-elect.
"George W. Hill, president American Tobacco company and Vice President Paul Hahn, as you know, arrive Warm Springs Thursday morning," the telegram said. "I am trying not to ask many favors, but will greatly appreciate it if you would take especially good care of both of them, because it is important in a business way to me."

Admits Sending Wire But Then Gets Resentful

Jimmy admits that he sent this message for the purpose revealed in the telegram, but seems to resent any suggestion that it was sent for the very purpose which is stated in the message itself. He bases his resentment on the fact that the big life policy already had been written and the fact that the further business which he had then in mind did not develop.
In August, 1933, however, nine months after the visit to Warm Springs on which Jimmy bespoke "especially good care" for the two officials of the American Tobacco company, that company deposited $2,000,000 in the Shawmut bank.
And in the fall of 1934 the bank placed the big insurance order through O'Brien, Russell, with whom Jimmy Roosevelt himself states that his firm of Roosevelt and Sergeant is associated on a 50-50 basis. Jimmy is mentioned in the testimony and in the arguments before F. Delano Putnam, the auditor, or referee, of the superior court in Boston.
According to the record, one official of the bank admitted that his purpose was to throw the commission on the insurance to O'Brien, Russell, Jimmy's associates, and take it away from the plaintiff in the suit, Arthur D. Cronin. Another bank official, after long hedging to avoid a direct answer, finally answered the question: "Weren't you interested in having James Roosevelt get a commission" with the words: "Yes, sure, I wanted him to get the business."

Wiley Says New Deal Confusing Problems

Chippewa Falls, Wis. — (P)—Republicans of the state and nation, Alexander Wiley told a home town audience here last night, must submit a definite and constructive policy to promote higher wages, shorter hours and steadier employment for labor, increased income for the farmer and a sound system of old age security.
Wiley, who seeks the Republican nomination for the United individualism would solve the nation's problems "toward which the New Deal is contributing only confusion."
He spoke eight times in Chippewa county yesterday.

League Checks Delay in Giving State PWA Funds

Mayor Goodland Receives Letter Explaining What Is Being Done

The federal government's apparent delay in granting PWA money to Wisconsin cities has launched an investigation of the causes, according to a letter received by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., from Frederick N. MacMillan, executive secretary of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities.
MacMillan said he checked over the last 21 lists of PWA projects which have been approved and found that out of a total of 1,776 projects granted not one went to any city in Wisconsin.
Appleton is vitally interested in the reasons why Wisconsin projects are not being granted for the city has on file in PWA two major work programs. One application is for the $451,470 paving program in which Appleton asked the PWA for 45 per cent of that amount. The other is for $50,000 to aid in remodeling Lincoln school so that the building may be used as a city hall.
MacMillan said he wrote letters to Senator F. Ryan Duffy, Senator Robert LaFollette and to D. R. Kennicott, PWA regional director, trying to find the reason for the apparent delay.
Gets Duffy's Assurance
Senator Duffy, MacMillan wrote, seemed under the impression that Wisconsin was getting its share until the facts were pointed out. Then he assured MacMillan Wisconsin would get its share.
Fear that the 26 million dollar Wisconsin river valley waterways project, which is being considered, is jeopardizing applications of municipalities was voiced by MacMillan to Senator LaFollette. Senator LaFollette stated that he understood there was enough money for both the river project and the municipalities' projects. MacMillan wrote, Kennicott was evasive in his answer to MacMillan.
Concern over the whole problem is felt by Appleton city officials who are anxious to get started on both the paving program and the city hall project. Appleton's applications are among 167 new Wisconsin PWA requests which have been forwarded to Washington in addition to about 70 still pending at the Chicago regional office.

Resurfacing of College Avenue Finished Monday

Resurfacing of College avenue from N. Story street to Drew street was completed yesterday afternoon by the Charles A. Green and Son Company. The crew finished up in the block between Durkee street and Drew street. The work was done by the Green company to repair the pavement which had deteriorated since it was laid last summer. Only ravelled wearing surfaces were repaired involving the traffic lanes and intersections.

Two clay tennis courts on the Lawrence college campus have been plowed up and will be seeded for grass.

One court is in front of the observatory and the other near the intersection of College avenue and S. Drew street. The construction of five new concrete courts along the Fox river bank near the campus is the reason for abandoning the two clay courts.

Jury Finds Truck Driver 80 Per Cent At Fault in Crash

Inquest Verdict Places Portion of Blame on Automobile Operator

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wagner and two of the children, Marvin and Marilyn, killed in an auto-truck crash near Twelve Corners Aug. 11, came to their deaths in a crash which resulted due to 80 per cent common negligence on the part of Harold Klanner, the truck driver, and 20 per cent common negligence on the part of Wagner, a coroner's jury decided at an inquest yesterday afternoon at Black Creek.

District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr said that there would be no further action in the case because of the finding of "common negligence" in the accident.

The verdict read that the persons died by an accident caused by a truck driven by Harold Klanner striking the Wagner car. We find the driver of the truck, Harold Klanner, 80 per cent common negligence, by being unable to see to his right and failing to look to the left by his own statement. We further find Wagner 20 per cent common negligent by failing to exercise sufficient care on entering the intersection.

Klanner testified that he was going about 35 miles per hour and that he did not see the Wagner car until an instant before the crash at the intersection. He said he was looking to the right, where there is a blind corner due to a cheese factory, and that he didn't remember looking to the left.

William Glasheen, county traffic officer, testified as to measurements taken and positions of the machines after the crash. He said it was his opinion that Klanner's truck struck the Wagner car near the rear right fender.

Edgar Milhaupt, Appleton, who tested the brakes on the wrecked machines, said that the rear brakes on the Wagner car were in good condition, but that the front brakes were not adjusted properly and not very effective. He said the truck brakes were in good condition and were 80 per cent effective.

Dr. J. J. Laine, Black Creek, said Mrs. Wagner and the two children died of skull fractures and that Mr. Wagner died of a skull fracture and a broken neck.

Mrs. J. N. Felton, Twelve Corners, said she heard the truck approaching the intersection and said she thought it was going about 50 miles an hour. She heard the crash and next saw Klanner crawling from the cab of his truck, she testified.

Henry McDaniels, New London, said he was driving a second truck and was following Klanner. He said he did not see the crash, but arrived a few seconds after the accident and assisted in taking the bodies from the Wagner machine.

Albert Stephani, Black Creek, said that earlier in the day he had driven with Klanner to Gillett with a load of gravel. While there they had dinner, a beer and a cigar, he said.

George Duhm, route 1, Black Creek, the first to arrive at the scene after the accident, told of the position of the wrecked machines.

Members of the jury were Steve Mullen, Ted Maas, Ferdinand Zochall, Julius Sasman, Clarence A. Peters and Roy Roloff, Black Creek.

Camp Staff Still at Work at Gardner Dam

Camping season is over at Gardner dam, valley council camp, and the scouts have gone home, but the staff lingers on.

Closing a big camp after some 400 scouts have invaded it all summer involves more than locking doors. There is considerable clean-up work to be done before the buildings can be abandoned. It is expected the staff, headed by Walter Dixon, executive, will leave within the next few days.

City poor relief expenses for August will show a drop from July, F. A. W. Hammond, city relief director, stated today. The relief load usually reaches its lowest point of the year in August because of summer work, he said. A further drop may be shown in September because outside work did not pick up until late this summer, he said.

Hear No Word on PWA Application, Postpone Meeting

Adjourned Session of County Board Will be Held on Sept. 13

The county board meeting scheduled for today was postponed until Tuesday, Sept. 13, this morning as no word concerning the county's application for a PWA grant to build a new courthouse has yet been received from PWA officials.

Meanwhile several supervisors and others interested in the proposed building plan are visiting the various towns in the county discussing the need for a new courthouse.

At an open meeting at Stephentown last night, Alfred Bradford, member of the special building committee, and Supervisors Mike Jacobs, John Bottensek and George Schaefer discussed the proposal.

Bottensek told of the stand he took at the last county board meeting, that the matter should be submitted to the voters. Supervisor Jacobs discussed present conditions at the courthouse. Bradford talked on the tentative building plans. About 100 persons attended the meeting, but a vote taken showed the majority opposed to building at the present time.

Another open meeting will be held at Hortonville tonight. Bradford, Jacobs and Raymond LeVe, Appleton architect, who drew tentative plans for the proposed building, will talk at the meeting.

Committee Defers Action on Plan to Rebuild Route 125

The county highway committee, meeting at the courthouse yesterday, decided to take no action at present on seeking a PWA grant for rebuilding Highway 125 to give the city a southern connecting link to Superhighway 41. The committee will not act until some sort of proposal is made to the county board by the Appleton city council.

The state highway department earlier this week advised Frank R. Appleton, highway commissioner, that it would consider giving aid under such a proposal.

The committee conferred with appraisers and L. W. Empey and Jules Mommaerts of the division highway department on rights-of-way for the Superhighway 41 connection between Highways 10 and 47.

Bills including $7,458.08 for labor, $2,349.55 for materials and $72.80 for rights-of-way were allowed.

Charge Malt Firms With Price Fixing

Federal Trade Commission Claims Violation Of Act

The Chilton Malting company, Chilton, was one of the 49 member manufacturers of the United States Malsters association, Chicago, accused yesterday by the federal trade commission of fixing and maintaining uniform delivered prices for malt in violation of the federal trade commission act.

The commission's complaint alleged that the practices of the respondents, who produce more than 65 per cent of all malt made in the United States, had prevented price competition and set up a monopoly in the sale of malt.

Other respondents named by the commission are: the Columbia Malting company, Chicago; Froggett Grain and Malting company, Milwaukee; W. E. Kreiner and Sons, Inc., Buffalo; the Kurth Malting company, Milwaukee; Interior Malt and Grain company, Minneapolis; the Ladish-Stoppenbach company, Milwaukee; George J. Meyer Malt and Grain corporation, Buffalo; Milwaukee Northwestern Malt and Grain company, Chicago; the Francis Perot's Sons Malting company, Philadelphia; Rahr Malting company, Manitowish, Wis.; H. W. Rickel and company, Detroit; I. Rosenheimer Malt and Grain company, Kewaskum, Wis., and Konrad Schreier company, Sheboygan, Wis.

Albert Schwill and company, Chicago; Daniel D. Wescher and Sons, Inc., Milwaukee; West Bend Malting company, West Bend, Wis., and Wisconsin Malting Co., Manitowish, Wis.

The commission said that these manufacturers were "the only regular source of supply for many purchasers."

Manitowish—Dr. Frank A. Miller, vice president and general manager of the Rahr Malting company, denied yesterday that the United States Malsters' association is a price fixing group as charged by the federal trade commission.

"The malt companies," Miller said, "are banded together to promote the general good of the industry, chiefly in improvement of quality of malt. We also cooperate with some universities and state agricultural departments in the promotion of better barley growing among farmers."

That the sudden and unexpected release of steam from the roller being used by the Charles Green and Son company on College avenue has caused some consternation among passersby.

The little machine was sitting quietly near the curbing in the 400 block on E. College avenue yesterday afternoon. The operator was sitting quietly too, apparently taking a brief recess. All was serene.

Suddenly a spout of steam shot from the boiler in a noisy hiss. A couple walking nearby almost climbed a lamp post. A man driving by was visibly shaken. A dog scuttled down an alleyway.

That farmers living in the vicinity of Rush lake, Winnebago county, resorted to threshing "bees" to hurry their harvests so thousands of ducks couldn't have such an extended meal on grain.

When threshing was delayed several days, and on some farms, two weeks, by heavy rains, wild ducks nesting at the lake began to feast on grain fields. The farmers appealed to the state conservation department, but the state could offer no solution. So the men banded together, working early and late, to clean up the harvest as quickly as possible.

A game warden reported that he saw as many as 2,000 ducks alight on one field.

That there are two artist prisoners at the county jail who are providing plenty of entertainment for the sheriff and other county officers. One is a poet, and copies of his work are circulated throughout the jail and office. The other is a song composer who sings continually while he busies himself with the cleaning work. The titles of some of the songs he has composed are "Refrain," "Sweet Girl of Mine," "Portrait," "Lost Ecstasy," and "Our Baby."

When Lawrence West goes home sometimes even he may get mixed up for he lives on West Lawrence street at 1024. The coincidence was discovered today by the city clerk's office staff while checking polling lists for the primary election.

J. C. Penney Co. Store will be closed Wed. until noon, preparing for their 1/2 DAY 1/2 DOLLAR event. See their ad in tonite's paper.

French Army in Maneuvers Near German Border

Germany should the Czechoslovak-sudeten German minority negotiations break down.

"A latent crisis is threatening to become acute," said the Diplomat'sch-Politische Korrespondenz, semi-official organ of the foreign office, which complained Czechoslovakia had done nothing concrete to give to the sudeten Germans their rights.

It was announced that the German charge d'affaires in Praha had lodged a second protest against "new and unheard of insults" to the German imperial army in the daily newspaper, Moray-Skosleski-Denik.

He was said to have demanded immediate action against officials of the paper to prevent continuation of the "slanderous poisoning hatred against Germanism."

A similar protest was made Saturday.

The paper said German soldiers upon conquering the French city, Lille, during the world war, acted "not like soldiers but like beasts" and gave revolting details to support its assertion.

The presence in London of Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, to give a personal report of German feeling intensified interest here in the British cabinet deliberations.

The authoritative newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, however, deprecated the prospect of war with the assertion that "no one wants a conflict, it plans number three of the Czechoslovak government (on minorities) gives Germans their rights, no English minister will need to think about such an eventuality."

The paper referred to the warning in his speech Saturday by Sir John Simon, British chancellor of the exchequer, that Britain might have to participate in the event of war.

Chancellor Hitler, meanwhile, continued his inspection of Germany's border fortifications, and was expected to visit all such military zones from Aachen, near the Belgian frontier, south to near Basel, Switzerland.

Oshkosh Mayor Objects To Waterways Project

Mayor Goodland yesterday received a letter from C. A. Wiechering, mayor of Oshkosh, protesting the use of 26 million dollars of PWA funds for the Wisconsin river valley waterways project and requesting Appleton's help to defeat the application. The Oshkosh mayor maintained that if the federal government grants the project, applications of municipalities will be jeopardized. Mayor Wiechering who is on the flood control committee, said in his letter that the 26 million dollar project would not benefit the Fox River valley.

THE OLD BADGER GAME

The words Communist and Fascist fly around too freely in America.

That, is evident in following the evidence before the Dies committee.

It is necessary to analyze the testimony critically. People should understand that unless they have lost temper or are speaking derisively, untruthfully calling a man a Communist is a considerable reflection upon his mental caliber and character. Professor Matthews before the committee seemed to honestly and carefully weigh his words. He spoke of large numbers of people who had been made "innocent dupes" of the Communist movement in this country simply because they did not understand it. Mr. Matthews, an experienced educator and writer in his early fifties, detailed with the precise accents of an instructor his relations with the Red movement. It appeared like evidence worth while. Here, indeed, was the time to pay attention.

Mr. Matthews explained that he was not a member of the Communist party but known as a "fellow traveler" and that it was considered more effective to be such fellow traveler in many instances than a party member since he could go on campuses and platforms the country over and appear as one of those charming liberals. Yet he rose to the point where he became "front man," or consultant, for the Communist party in twenty organizations which had been allied with it.

Some of the evidence not generally printed which Mr. Matthews gives should be interesting to every American:

"Like many other Americans of the middle class, I suffered from a sentimental idealism; I fell hard for Wilsonian idealism; I lived through the war-to-end-war and I lived through the post-war disillusionment.

"Step by step I drew further toward the left. I felt that we needed something that would bring the ideal world to pass more quickly. The Communist party promised the most—a speed-up of social change.

"Having got in on an idealistic basis, I got out on the same basis. No man can be in close touch with the movement without realizing that every human ideal is more flatly violated in left-wing circles than outside those circles. Fellow travelers, on the fringe, will never discover these things. The party morality is that 'anything goes that serves the interest of the class struggle.' There is no degree of perjury or violence of any sort which is not used or planned. As an idealist you would have to have a pretty well-lined stomach to stand that sort of thing."

Mr. Matthews followed with live examples. He detailed the case at Norfolk, Virginia where communists put on the white robes of the Ku Klux Klan to terrorize negro clothing workers into joining a labor union controlled by the Reds. Then the Red newspapers made a veritable Roman holiday out of front page screaming headlines denouncing the way the South terrorized negro workers and thus using their own burlesque performance to try to drive blacks into their tricky organization.

Mr. Matthews also detailed how the Communist headquarters plans to place "fellow travelers" in the major political parties in order to disrupt them. As a sample he told that he was directed to join the Democratic party in New Jersey and run for assembly which he did.

Further sidelights were thrown by this witness upon the methods employed to raise funds. Of course the bewhiskered bum element is touched for the usual nickels and dimes whereas languets are staged for what are called the "pink intellectuals." Such repasts often produce as much as $2,000 a night. Sons of wealthy families that have shown mental instability and are attracted by the thought of somehow becoming heroes are played upon with fortunate results. Mr. Matthews cited the case of Young Lamont, son of a partner in J. P. Morgan & Company.

But back of it all stands Moscow. "There is always the party fund from Moscow that Mr. Browder can draw on in any emergency." Mr. Matthews followed by citing examples of the use of this fund in the organization of the Student Congress Against War and the sending of other "fellow travelers" to Cuba for the general purpose of raising Cain.

The taking of testimony may be stretched out before this committee for quite a while. Witnesses will probably take the stand who have an ax to grind, a hatred to satisfy or some egotism to feed.

That is why the reader must exercise circumspection in getting at the truth.

But testimony like that of Professor Matthews, a trusted inside man, and the returning soldiers who have escaped from the Spanish inferno into which they were inveigled, bear a peculiar attraction because they come from men who at least know the truth.

SOUNDS LIKE HITLER AND SCHUSCHNIGG

It isn't supposed to be exactly elevating for a nation—although it may be entertaining—to witness its great men flinging "hypocrite" and "blackguard" at each other as have Secretary Ickes and Senator Glass the past week.

Both are said to have rather irascible tempers but scientific medicine might account for the combat by pointing its finger directly at the deadly inroads of age.

Senator Glass is past 80, and knows it. Mr. Ickes is 65, and may not realize it. But just as the sun dries out a towel flapping on the line so does age very often appear to absorb the good humor that should attend all general differences of opinion, and certainly blesses the man through whose veins it courses.

Years themselves do not tell an accurate tale. Senator Glass at 80 may be younger than Mr. Ickes at 65. And Mr. Ickes calling Senator Glass a hypocrite may have been actuated by his failing breath in trying to keep abreast the social activities of a brand new wife 40 years his junior.

Still Senator Glass should not have hurled "blackguard." Even though the great Virginian has been right in condemning the financial policies of the Administration as juvenile he should make allowances for the anger that is bound to permeate those who have failed, and deplorably, and now stand shivering under all their shoddy garments before the penetrating eyes of a disillusioned public.

INDEPENDENTS WILL COST HEAVILY

Maury Maverick, the prominent New Deal Texan, who was beaten at the primary, talks of running as an independent for congress. There appears a strong likelihood that Senator Pope out in Idaho, another New Deal casualty, will run as an independent.

This running independently is a great American privilege although for the most part it is a matter of perfectly green and sour grapes, backbiting and poor sportsism.

That phase of it is not the important thing to date. The critical matter is what it will cost the country for when a Knight of the Rubber Stamp runs in a critical contest millions must be poured forth to do their effective voting stuff. Maverick did get several millions and Pope was not without a thick leather bag of swag. But the people are demanding higher and higher prices just as the New Deal is sinking lower in their estimation.

Consider the cost to the country of electing Senator Barkley and shudder at the future.

FALL AND PIGSKINS IN THE AIR

One could almost smell the acrid odor of burning leaves in the air the past week. Cool nights, winds out of the northwest, early twilight, all remind one that summer is fleeting and fall is at hand.

The All Star-Redskin game at Chicago will usher in the season of pigskinitis with grand fanfare. And from then on colleges, universities, high schools, everyone will join in. Football is part of the very life blood of this nation, of which fact the nation is proud.

We all want to see our teams win but most of all folks want to get out there again in the stands, wool blankets wrapped around legs, snow or rain perhaps beating in faces or a sun losing its heat playing on hunched backs, and yell support, eat hamburgers and drink pop, leap to their feet when a heart-topper happens, and go home limp as last week's dishrag.

It's all football.

Opinions Of Others

WHAT HEYWOOD DIDN'T SAY
Mr. Heywood Brown, in his column, quotes what a witness before the Dies committee presumably Mr. Brown might have said, as follows:—"Your committee is wasting its time if it fails to go into the problems of social and economic justice. Here are the roots of revolution."

On the subject of the roots of revolution Mr. Brown's position is unassailable. Happily and properly, the number of man-hours and dollars being spent on the study of America's problems of social and economic justice are greater today than even before in our history. These expenditures have been the New Deal's greatest contribution to good government.

However, to contend that the Dies committee should abandon the job for which it was especially created in order further to duplicate the study of social and economic justice is about as logical as to contend that a man whose auto is on fire should lay down his fire extinguisher to study the possibilities of non-inflammable gasoline by the light of his blazing car. Incidentally, in response to a charge by Dr. Matthews, not that Mr. Brown was or is a Communist, but that he was a "fellow traveler" with the Communists, Mr. Brown stated:—"I am for the C.I.O. leadership and I favor the loyalist cause in Spain. I am against fascism and am for peace and democracy. I am not a Communist and never have been."

It would have more completely illuminated Mr. Brown's position had he seen fit to declare himself as forthrightly against communism as he declared himself against fascism. Twenty years of communism in Russia have demonstrated that no one can any more give allegiance to communism and democracy at the same time than he can serve democracy and fascism simultaneously.—New York World-Telegram.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—The female form divine, which once was considered an adjunct to Broadway entertainment, has fallen into some disrepute. No one knows just why. The display of large patches of feminine epidermis was never at such low ebb; and the few places where it is found are not troubled with too much business.

Burlesque, which was the obvious showcase for skin, has been banished, although girle shows may still be found. Here and there in the frowzier "joints" one can find semi-naked ladies. That about covers the field.

Some specialists in this species of entertainment, unwilling to believe that the tired business man and the lodge member from Rock Junction have lost interest in feminine form, figure, face and flesh, are getting ready to have more of that sort of thing on display when the fall season opens.

The Paradise has dared the summer doldrums by keeping open with a show that leans heavily for its appeal on semi-nudity, but the results have been none too happy. Experts on such matters have said the Paradise girls are about the prettiest Broadway has had a chance to see in a long time, but still the paying customers fail to show much enthusiasm.

The Hollywood, closed for many months, is getting ready to try again, and with thinly clad glamour girls as its principal bid for business. Paradoxically, two of town's most torrid amusement places (El Chico in the village and Havana-Madrid on Broadway) keep their performers almost severely puritanical in dress. The torridity is provided by the customers themselves to the wild wiggles of the rhumba.

THINGS I MISS IN MANHATTAN: Watermelons for a nickel; the excitement in a small boy's breast when the first "city actress" he ever saw came to town for a visit (her hennaed hair was the most beautiful he had ever seen); the muzzle of a horse lifting from the cool refreshment of a wooden, moss-rimmed watering trough; the song, "I'm Afraid To Go Home In The Dark"; The brilliant rejoinder we used to make when someone asked us to repeat a remark—"I don't chew my cabbage twice"; the street lights being turned off on full-moon nights (to save electricity, and the moonlight was just as good anyway); carving faces in pumpkins for Halloween—and the knife always slipping as we carved the nose, running down into the mouth; shovelling paths from the house to the woodshed after a heavy snowfall (and then how we hated carrying in armful of wood for the kitchen range); buckwheat pancakes.

MAN AT WORK: The cab driver. He jockeys his cab into a long line at Grand Central or the Pennsylvania station, at hotels and at night clubs, hoping that when it finally is his turn for a fare it will be a long and profitable run. Often he waits as long as two hours, for the line moves slowly; and he winds up with a 50-cent drive and a 10-cent tip.

He is by habit a bully. He has found that the cab driver who gets the business is the one who fights for preferred position at the numerous hack stands designated throughout the city. He snarls at other drivers and mocks at the ordinary rules of courtesy of the road, for with him it is always the slogan "Get a customer," even if it means stopping in the middle of the street and blocking all who are behind.

He doesn't have any respect for the other fellow's bumpers or fenders. He drives cabs that are strongly built and which can be depended upon to give more than they take. Besides, there is always the insurance company to pay the damages.

Sometimes he will bargain with you on the price you pay for a ride, but first he must satisfy himself you are not a spotter for the cab company. He knows, too, that traffic policemen have their eyes open for occupied cabs which do not have their flags down. (When the flag is down, the meter is registering).

He doesn't make much money. He doesn't have much fun. He is a cab driver. (Copyright, 1938)

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Sept. 2, 1913

The oldest horse in the county, having reached the age of 37 years, died the previous morning. It was owned by the late Frank G. Kurz and was pastured in the First ward.

As a result of the discovery that the power house was out of plumb, a conference was held at the city hall attended by members of the council, City Engineer Charles Vinal, Consulting Engineer T. W. Orblson, Fred Hoffman and his son, contractors. Mr. Hoffman claimed that stakes were moved without his knowledge after the building had been laid out.

Both the Trades and Labor council picnic at Waverly and the joint outing of the Neenah and Appleton Knights of Pythias at Brighton beach were well attended the previous day. Oscar Kunitz gave a swimming exhibition at Waverly and covered a half mile in 12 minutes.

The Hegner Construction company was erecting a modern dwelling house on Eighth street for Arthur Rossmess. The house was being erected where the old Kober home stood.

10 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Aug. 28, 1928

Miss Dorothy Murphy, concert pianist and teacher, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Murphy, 813 E. College avenue, was to open a studio in Appleton in the fall.

C. C. Bailey, Galesburg, Ill., newly appointed boys' work secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., arrived in Appleton the previous evening and started his duties that day. He succeeds J. W. Pugh who was to be boys' work secretary at the Springfield, Ill., Y.M.C.A.

A large bald eagle had been terrorizing the wild ducks on the Fox river near Kaukauna. Theodore Zwick and Carl Rennie tried to catch it and followed the bird, which had a wingspread of four to five feet, as far as Dundas but lost sight of it when it swung back toward Kaukauna.

The Clintonville Milk company, manufacturers of powdered milk, had been purchased by the Borden company, the deal having been pending for several weeks.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE RIDERLESS PONY

The riderless pony walked along. His sleek head hanging, as if he knew The world had been robbed of joyful song; The skies would never again be blue.

Ahead was that laughing little boy. Whose eager voice could not call to him. The riderless pony was shorn of joy! The road grew misty, the journey grim.

The riderless pony in his stall. Refused his oats when the next day came. As if he knew and must blame us all. There was no comrade in any game!

The long days come and the long days go. And our hearts are as gray as that cold head-stone. For a whole life long, we must talk, we know, Like a riderless pony, all alone! (Copyright, 1938)

A Bystander In Washington

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in official and political life of the nation and in journalism are substituting for today's guest column is written—

BY CHARLES EDISON
Assistant Secretary of the Navy
Washington—The expenditure of any public money is a responsibility. When the amount involved reaches $50,000,000 the responsibility is definitely great. But when the $50,000,000 or more is to be used to purchase a battleship there is a dual responsibility—first to see that the public gets a dollar's worth of ship for each dollar of the purchase price, and second, to be certain that the battleship purchased has all the desirable characteristics to make it of maximum usefulness to the defense of our country throughout its 26 or more years of service.

This responsibility is divided. The general board, composed of experienced flag officers, determines the characteristics which include tonnage, armament, cruising radius, speed, vulnerability, etc.

The technical bureaus study the general board characteristics, work up general and detailed specifications, provide plans and conduct various tests in the model basins, at the boiler and other laboratories, at the naval experiment station in ordnance plants and in outside commercial plants. This work crystallizes in the form of plans and specifications which are furnished the prospective bidders several months in advance of bid opening, to enable them to make proper estimates.

In the actual buying of a battleship the basic law which governs is the Vinson-Trammell act of March 27, 1934. In any contract in excess of $10,000, this law provides for reports in detail to the Secretary of the Navy on costs and for payment into the Treasury of profits in excess of 10 per cent of the contract price. It further provides against subdivision to avoid the restrictions of the act. The act was amended June 24, 1935, to allow the losses of one year to be carried over for the next succeeding income taxable year in determining excess profit, if any.

In addition to the Vinson-Trammell act, there are incorporated in all building contracts the provisions of the Walsh-Healey act of June 30, 1936, which specifies prevailing wage rates and overtime wages for more than 40 hours work a week be paid by the contractor. The Bacon-Davis act makes similar wage and hour provisions for labor on the government's own work.

Then still further acts and restrictions, such as Buy-American provisions, and restrictions as to awarding lowest bidders, complicate the problem for both the Navy Department and the contractor who is awarded the contract for a battleship.

While the law limits profit to 10 per cent, no provision is made to protect the contractor against an excessive loss. Taking into consideration the fact that the shipbuilding act is entering a field that has lain dormant for approximately 20 years, that their plants are not completely equipped for building battleships, that labor and material costs cannot be accurately predicted over the four-year building period, their reluctance to become a party to such a large contract can well be appreciated.

To offset some of the risk involved, the Department has provided for increase in the contract price when and if the costs of labor and materials rise to such an extent as to be reflected in the Department of Labor indices during the building period. Steps have also been taken to reduce all possible changes during the building period.

The Navy at the present time may be regarded as the greatest shipbuilding concern in the world. It is the desire of the Navy Department to distribute this work between the Navy yards and private shipbuilding industry on an equitable basis. Private industry can play a major role in the winning of any war and must be kept alive and healthy.

The problem is to make government business attractive enough for private industry to compete without the feeling that there is no compensation for the risks involved and the additional administrative details required, and at the same time fully protect the government's interest. It is a very real and complicated problem but not incapable of solution.

The Navy hopes to buy three battleships on October 5.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If August 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m.; from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. until midnight.

Discouragement may be the only thing that can prevent your being successful in anything you undertake today, so do not give in to it. Through will power you can accomplish wonders. Resentment will warp many people's judgement this day and cause them to do and say many foolish things. So show your wisdom by refusing to harbor any, no matter how great the temptation may be. If there are indications that any suggestions made are prompted by selfishness, they are likely not only to receive no consideration, but to be responsible for worthwhile confidence being completely destroyed. Conditions appear to be conducive to a good deal of needless excitement in private homes and public places. View things calmly, and refuse to be stampeded into doing anything that might arouse unkind criticism. Before offering to do a favor this day make certain that it will be appreciated, and that it has no chance of being misconstrued as an effort on your part to meddle in something that does not concern you. Working Women and Homes

Editor Post-Crescent — A couple weeks ago our former neighbor, an old lady, was over next door trimming the bushes and trees around the house which she now rents to our present neighbors. At that time I was the only one of our family who wasn't working. My mother and dad and sister all had fairly steady jobs and my younger brother was just then helping a farmer pick beans.

While we were talking I noticed how she was taking in the untidy condition of our house. She was noticing the things one housekeeper looks for in another one's house—dust, dirty dishes, disarrangement in general. As she glanced around, I thought of excusing the untidiness on the grounds that men just naturally aren't housekeepers and that I was probably less so than most men. But as I was getting ready to do that this old lady expressed a thought that I have held for a long time myself. She sat across the table from me looking at a pile of dishes in the sink and some paper and scraps on the floor and said with a little accent she brings from the old country, "You know, I think that there are too many women working in offices and factories." Then she went on to tell how her life in her home and with her family compares with that of her daughter who works uptown and with whom she stays. The situation in our family and the condition of our house had prompted her to make the statement and she went on to explain with the case of her family and that of her daughter's. She told of how she cared for her home and family and contrasted her daughter's attitude toward home and family after a day at the office. There is no interest or enthusiasm for housework and family problems after a day of

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

NEED A GENTLEMAN BE A MARTYR?

"Please allow me to thank you, writes a southern reader, for the article you published about July 1, 1936 on prostatic obstruction." (Probably one on "Prevention of Prostatism" released July 8, 1936, from which I quote briefly:

The introduction of electro-surgery in this field has met with the same blind intolerance as did diathermy extirpation of tonsils and ambulant (injection) treatment of hernia. But in spite of the hypothetical objections raised by the old time surgeons the modern method has established itself on a firm footing. No old man today need become a nuisance to himself and to others by reason of this wretched bladder trouble. Here is relief for him, gentle, safe, efficient, practically painless, and without the necessity of prolonged confinement in a pitifully helpless state.

"I was in bad condition and the doctors here never mentioned the method you spoke of, only urged the open operation. After reading your article I went to a doctor in (the next State) in whom I had confidence. After an examination he told me surgery was very necessary. I then asked him about the method you described and he recommended it highly. He also recommended a specialist in my own State who was one of the best. I went at once to Dr. (the specialist) who did the transurethral prostatic resection as you described, and in 10 days I was ready to come home and have not had a minute's trouble since. It was a revelation to me as I had never before heard of the new method, and in the past four years have had three friends to pass away following the open operation and two others who had a long hard pull to recover." (W. T. A.)

In 5000 cases the average duration of hospital confinement where the modern method was employed was less than one week. The length of time the martyr to old-fashioned surgery has to remain in bed under distressing conditions averages three weeks.

The old open operation (perineal or suprapubic or both routes combined) had a high mortality rate— from 15 to 20 per cent. That risk was a formidable one for the old gentleman to take, but there were giants in those days and then as always a gentleman could not flinch in the face of a one to five chance. Electro-surgical removal of only the obstructing portion of the prostate thru the natural channel has a mortality rate of 2 per cent—risk no greater than that taken by the youth who spends a week in the hospital dallying with the pretty nurses and having his appendix removed.

For a time, in the developing stage of the new method, I was glad to name urologists here and there who are skilled in the method, when correspondents asked for such information. Today every urologist obstructing portion of the prostate who is capable of treating bladder troubles at all is familiar with the modern method whether he himself uses it or not.

Speaking as Ol Doc Brady, who, I hope, will remain a gentleman if, and when, if I asked my specialist about transurethral resection and he disapproved of it I'd grab my hat (figuratively, of course, as I have none to grab) and hurry away from such a quaint place. After all a gentleman may be a gentleman without being a martyr to chirography.

compete with husbands for jobs, if mothers want to leave their homes to the care of their children, I guess they have the constitutional right to do so, but if it were my place to say, every home and family would have the full care and attention of a mother and wife. Yours truly, ALBERT RANDOLPH.

Best Fox Valley Horses to Enter 2nd Eskdale Show

Five Classes Added to List; Event to be All-Day Affair

Neenah — Fox River valley's best groomed and trained show horses will compete for honors in the second annual Eskdale horse show Saturday, Sept. 10, at the Jack Kimberly stables at Lime Kiln Point. The show again will be sponsored by the Twin City Emergency society.

Thirteen classes, five more than in last year's show, will feature the event, and the second show will differ from the first event in that it will be an all day affair.

The show was so well received last year, that it was decided to make it an annual affair. More than 1,000 persons watched the first show.

The five additional classes will include seat and hand class, parent and child class, pairs of hunters to be jumped abreast, ladies' hunter and hunt teams. The first class will be open to children 13 years of age and under the entrants will be judged on horsemanship and suitability of mount.

Parent and Child
The parent and child class will be shown in the ring with the parents and children riding abreast. Judging will be on horsemanship only.

Indications are that the pair of hunters will be outstanding. Jumping abreast over eight fences not more than 3 feet 6 inches high in the ring, the pairs will be judged according to performance and way of going and matching and similarity of type. Performance, manners and way of going for safety in the hunting field and conformation will be the factors for the judges' decisions.

Ladies' hunters class. The hunt teams class also ought to be outstanding, the class including teams of three hunters each shown one following the other over fences over an outside course. Judging will include performance, hunting pace and distance, similarity of type and matching.

The other ten classes and their descriptions are as follows:

Local Class Open
Local class will be open to anyone riding horses obtained from livery or riding clubs in the Fox River valley and will be judged for horsemanship only; hunter class, including light, middle or heavy-weight hunters, will be shown in the ring over eight fences not over 3 feet 6 inches high and judged by manners and way of going and conformation; children's equestrian class is to emphasize to young riders the importance of kindness and gentleness in handling their horses. This class will be open to horses or ponies ridden by those who have not reached their eighteenth birthday. Horsemanship will be judged.

Single draft horse class will be shown in hand in the ring and will be judged for suitability of type; mare and colt class will be shown in hand in the ring and judged for suitability of type; five-gaited saddle horse class will include stallion, mare or gelding and will be shown at five gaits; working hunter class will be shown over an outside course and performance will count 100 per cent; draft team class will be shown hitched to a wagon and judged for suitability of type and similarity of horses; three-gaited saddle horse class will be shown at walk, trot and canter, and handy hunter class will be judged on manners, hunting performance and promptness and will be shown in special inside course.

Kimberly Horses Won
In last year's show, horses from the Eskdale stables, owned by Jack Kimberly, annexed the most ribbons, taking two first places, a second and a third, while the Arne-mann Riding academy also won two blue ribbons and a third place, while the Chiquapin farm won a first place, three seconds and a third. The Oneda stables took home a blue ribbon, and Mrs. E. P. Hughes was awarded a first place ribbon. Sewer Line Leaks Cause Excess Flow To Disposal Plant

Ground Water Found Pouring Into Columbian Avenue Main

Neenah — Leakage of ground water into Neenah sewers is causing an excess flow into the Neenah-Menasha disposal plant amounting to more than a million gallons a day, according to the report of a survey submitted to Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs.

The only main sewer in Neenah, however, which was found to be discharging a large excess of water is the so-called Columbian avenue sewer which services most of the Neenah mainland northeast of the Soo Line railroad tracks, according to the report.

The number of persons connected to this sewer would be expected to produce 530,000 gallons of sewage per day. This figure is based on the nationally accepted figure of 100 gallons per day for each person and there are about 5,300 persons in this area. The report stated, however, that the sewer actually was found to be flowing at the rate of 2,010,000 gallons per day in April and at the rate of 1,670,000 gallons per day and 1,390,000 gallons per day on two different days in July.

Take Measurements
After the 1938 spring thaw, the sewage flows going into the treatment plant were higher than could be explained by a consideration of the number of people and industries, the report pointed out. In an attempt to determine the cause of those unreasonably high flows, measurements were remade early in April and again in July in all of the main sewers discharge into the intercepting sewer.

During these checks, no measurements were made during or immediately following rains, so it was believed that no surface storm water was included in the observed flows but that there was a great deal of ground water leaking into the Neenah sewers, it was explained in the report. "In fact, it would appear that into the Columbian avenue sewer alone are leaking 860,000 to 1,480,000 gallons of ground water per day, an amount equal to from 1 to 1.7 times the expected flow from the entire domestic population in Neenah," it was said in the report.

Enters Channel
During the survey, it also was found that from the section of the Lincoln street sewer lying in the bed of the Neenah channel of the Fox river between the foot of Lincoln street and the intercepting sewer at River street, sanitary sewage has been entering the channel. When this sewer first was connected with the intercepting sewer in Oct. 1937, the pumpage rate at the treatment plant increased about 5,000,000 gallons a day. Inspection revealed the cause of the increase to be leaks in the manholes and possibly the pipe joints in the line. The city was notified and the connection immediately was plugged.

The report stated that "leakage into the sewer system is objectionable for several reasons, among which are increased cost of treatment and decreased treatment efficiency. The costs of certain phases of sewage treatment increase directly with increased volume, and the overall cost of treatment at the plant has been, during the first six months of 1938, $15.77 per million gallons."

"While the plant was designed to treat 10 millions gallons a day and is fully capable of doing so, better treatment is obtained with low flows."

Bike, Automobile Collisions Raise Toll of Accidents

17 Traffic Crashes Reported in Winnebago County Last Week

Menasha—Four accidents involving riders of bicycles and automobiles, including one in Menasha, boosted the accident toll in the county to 17 for last week, according to Floyd L. Wright, of the Safe Drivers' league. Wright declared that 11 bicycle riders have been involved in collisions with automobiles in the county this year.

In addition to the one in Menasha, two bicyclist accidents occurred in the county at large and one in Oshkosh. In one accident a boy was killed and in another a small boy was seriously hurt. In Menasha 12-year-old Mark Bergman received a slight head injury Tuesday in a collision with a car driven by Mrs. Charles Royster, 834 Broad street.

In the accidents reported last week, there were one fatality and 10 persons were injured. Fourteen cars were damaged. The total for the first 27 days of August is 18, one less than it was for the same period a year ago.

Better Than Last Year

The accident totals for the year through Aug. 27 are less than they were for the same period of 1937, according to Mr. Wright. In 1937 there were 340 accidents with 10 deaths and 219 injuries. This year there have been 298 accidents with 5 deaths and 166 persons injured. Cars damaged this year number 342 and a year ago the total was 416.

An accident included in the total of 17 but which resulted in property damage only involved a Neenah car Saturday night, according to county police. Cars owned by the Rev. J. J. Bennett, 15 Algoma boulevard, Oshkosh, and by Joseph Muench, 710 Lincoln avenue, Neenah, collided on County Trunk A at the intersection with the Oakwood beach road near Oshkosh, county police reported.

The Barnett car was driven by Mrs. Barnett while Lynn Werner, 328 Park avenue, Neenah, drove the Muench car. The accident occurred as Mrs. Barnett was about to turn left on to the beach road and both cars were going south on it.

Both cars were damaged but no one was injured. Passengers in the Muench car included Albert Muench, 710 Lincoln avenue; Christie Jersild, 319 E. Wisconsin avenue; Ruth Cannon, 205 E. Doty street, all Neenah; and Dorothy Ahrenfeld of Oak Park, Ill.

St. Mary Eleven To Use Sixth St. Park for Gridiron

Grounds Will Be Ready for First Home Game Sept. 25

Menasha—St. Mary High school gridirons will play their home games at the city park off Sixth street, according to Kenneth Carriek, park superintendent. The gridiron will be ready for the first home game on Sunday, Sept. 25.

Mr. Carriek has conferred with Marvin Miller, St. Mary High school coach, and the field will be laid out in front of the grandstand which is being erected at the park under a WPA project. The concrete tiers of seats for all three sections of the stand have been completed as has most of the brickwork for the rooms under the west section of the stadium.

Park employees will lay out the gridiron. The field will not be used for practice except perhaps one night, before each game so that the St. Mary squad may get accustomed to the field, according to Mr. Carriek. The field was seeded a year ago and the turf has not had a chance to become heavy. Practice on the field would quickly cut the turf up.

50 Will Report

Coach Marvin Miller will meet his squad at 9:30 Thursday morning. Candidates have already been checked for equipment and lockers and instructions for preliminary training have been given. Returning members of last year's squad plus this year's freshmen group probably will boost the number of candidates over the 50 mark.

Practices will be held daily at 9:30 each morning and at 2:45 each afternoon until the opening of school on next Tuesday, after which sessions will be held in the afternoon only. Although 14 lettermen were lost from last year's squad, there will be 12 men back to form a nucleus around which Coach Miller can build.

Locker rooms at the school have been renovated and placed in condition for the opening of the season. Sam Kraus again will have charge of the reserve squad. Kraus also will instruct his group in 6-man football so that the underclassmen will have a chance to play football. A demonstration of the 8-man game is planned for between halves of a regular game.

Warden Forecasts Excellent Pheasant Hunting in County

Neenah — Prospects of a good pheasant hunting season this year are in the offing, according to Warden Albert Dunham who told officers of the Twin City Rod and Gun club in an interview Monday that "in many years experience as a conservation officer I have not seen better prospects for a hunting season as appears to exist this fall."

The reason for this prediction is that more than 4,700 pheasants have been released in Winnebago county since the last hunting season.

Scandinavia Giant Was Attraction at Badger State Fair

Scandinavia—Clifford Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson of this place, who holds the record as the nation's biggest giant, by tipping the scales at 460 pounds, and a height of 8 feet 7 inches, appeared at the Wisconsin State Fair, Milwaukee, as one of its attractions.

In his appearance there he went under a new non-de plume and was introduced as "Mighty Mike" — the Man of Milk, who had acquired his great stature and strength by including dairy products in his diet. Since his graduation from the Stevens Point State Teacher's college Thompson has made practically a world tour with show and circus.

His parents and two sisters are of normal stature.

As Thompsons body is about twice the size and weight of the average man, he naturally requires twice as much to feed and clothe him. He wears a hat size 9, shoes size 22 and measures 44 inches around the waist.

When in college he majored in science and mathematics.

WOMEN In The News

You've made a quick trip around the world when you've looked at these four ladies from the week's news:

WYNGAARD

Madison — Currently one of the most diverting features of the election campaigns to observers of state public affairs is the optimism in the camp of the Republicans. It is wonderful to behold.

The certainty that this is their golden year is most marked in the camp of the Republican candidates for the United States senate, to which a bona fide member of the Wisconsin G. O. P. has not been admitted since the days of Irvine L. Lenroot. Six eager candidates are barnstorming the state for the Republican senate nomination, evidence in itself that the party expects to come through in November.

The high spirit of the Republican organization at least as far as the senate election is concerned hinges about the conviction that the Duffy-Progressive fight will eventually split the liberal vote in Wisconsin, and that their man will slip in as a result. Of course, such a victory will be a minority victory, but Wisconsin has become accustomed to electing its state and federal officers with minority votes. It is the inevitable result of the three-party system.

It is in this frame of mind that many Republican strategists are now hoping for a visit from the president. Duffy ballyhoo from Mr. Roosevelt, they feel, would ensure that the New Deal following in Wisconsin would be hopelessly divided between Duffy and the Progressive candidate.

However, it isn't exactly clear to many outsiders how the Republican confidence is warranted, how an assurance of a New Deal-Progressive vote division will bring to them a coveted senate toga.

For example: If the Progressives' vote minimum can be taken as $25,000 (LaFollette in 1936 got $73,000), and if Mr. Wiley's 1936 vote for governor can be considered a normal Republican total, it is plain that a division, no matter how, would not bring a Republican to victory, for certainly the Democratic party can muster 268,530 votes, the 1936 total of the gubernatorial candidate, for Mr. Duffy this fall.

Or taken another way: If President Roosevelt's popularity in Wisconsin is substantially what it was in 1936, and if the Republicans can get no more support for their senate candidate than Mr. Landon received in the state two years ago, the G. O. P.'s assumption is clearly not justified. For Mr. Roosevelt lost more than double Mr. Landon's vote, so that no matter how the New Deal vote is divided, one of the two liberal contestants will still have more than the Republican candidate.

Of course, the situation may be complicated by a reversal against the New Deal in the state, although that has nowhere been conclusively demonstrated, by some resentment against Governor LaFollette in his own party, by the Coalition state ticket, and other factors. Perhaps the Republicans are basing their hopes on these. But they may also do some thinking on the assurances of some Progressive leaders that they expect to get Republican support this year.

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATISM

And that brings up a question which is a very moot one in present day Wisconsin political discussions. For there is a growing belief, not only among Republicans, but also among Progressive party influential conservatives who have spent their lives fighting LaFollettism and everything that movement stood for, and who have always been regarded as pillars of the conservative Republican party.

It is understandable, of course, that the Republicans are not commenting on the situation publicly, but it will be recalled that this charge, made by blatant, bold Harlan Kelley of Sheboygan at the Republican state convention at Fond du Lac in June, was received with a notable lack of applause by the G. O. P. dignitaries assembled there.

Although there is no way of ascertaining the length of the Progressive success in wooing over conservative businessmen and industrialists to the LaFollette cause, it is believed to be due to two men, Adj. Gen. Ralph M. Immel, who has important friends in both Wisconsin industry and the Republican party, and Herman L. Ekern. To their efforts may be added the persuasive talents of the governor himself, exercised in the pleasant environment of executive mansion receptions and executive office luncheons for business and industrial representatives during the last couple of years.

SEEKING IS BELIEVING

However, there are some definite signs of the results. Note, for example, the high industrial and business men serving on LaFollette's department of commerce board of directors. So far the department has confined itself to showing Wisconsin business that the LaFollette administration is not a bugbear, but is willing to serve its interests along with those of other elements in the state.

Then note the industrial moguls working in close harmony with the LaFollette administration in the proposed development of the Wisconsin and Fox Rivers, and the whispered reports of Progressive party organizers who are bringing in party contributions to headquarters here.

A few days ago, for example, one of the leading field men for the NPA confided to this correspondent that the party has successfully solicited contributions from leading businessmen in a county which is normally a staunch Republican bailiwick, on a part with Rock, Walworth and other counties in which the Republicans are always certain of a majority.

WOMEN In The News

You've made a quick trip around the world when you've looked at these four ladies from the week's news:

WYNGAARD

Madison — Currently one of the most diverting features of the election campaigns to observers of state public affairs is the optimism in the camp of the Republicans. It is wonderful to behold.

The certainty that this is their golden year is most marked in the camp of the Republican candidates for the United States senate, to which a bona fide member of the Wisconsin G. O. Six eager candidates are barnstorming the state for the Republican senate nomination, evidence in itself that the party expects to come through in November.

Mother Complex Often Promotes Unhappiness

Dear Miss Dix—About a year ago I married a young man with whom I was very much in love and who I thought loved me and we went to live in the home that he had provided for many years for his mother. Being a business girl, and his mother still desiring to be mistress of her son's home, I kept my position in order that she could be in the home alone during the day. This I thought would keep her from feeling that I had taken her place. Soon after we were married my husband began to tell me he would rather stay at home with his mother than go places with me, and whenever we went out he would first ask his mother's permission. If she consented, we went. If she objected, we stayed at home. At night he sits up a couple of hours after I go to bed to entertain his mother. He consults her about everything, and openly says he loves her better than any one else. I left a good home, where I was happy to do my best to increase the happiness in the home of the man I loved. It seems that I have failed completely, and I am so miserably unhappy that I do not know what to do. Is there any remedy for the situation? Will my husband ever change? Could he treat me like this if he really loved me?

Answer: Evidently your husband has a fatal case of mother complex, and there is no cure for that. As long as he lives he will always be tied to his mother's apron strings, and you will never be able to cut them. He will always think that Mother knows best, that his first duty is to Mother, that Mother is closer to him than any other human being, and you will always play second fiddle to her.

It is only too true that a mother can be a more deadly rival to a wife, more completely destroy her happiness, and more utterly break up her home than any platinum blonde vamp or any gold-digging siren, no matter how beautiful and seductive she may be. Indeed, a wife is far more powerless to fight against her mother-in-law than she is against the Other Woman, because a man can never be brought to see what a cruel wrong and injustice he is doing in preferring his mother before his wife. He hurts her just as much when he neglects her for his mother, as if he were neglecting her for some flapper.

Worse still, his wife cannot appeal to his conscience as she could if he were having an affair with a girl because he counts it unto himself for righteousness that he is so devoted to his dear old mother. He considers that it is nothing but selfishness and jealousy that keeps his wife from thinking that she has any right to his time and attention and money, and refuses to sacrifice herself on Mother's altar.

The old saying that a good son makes a good husband is only true when the son and mother stand in a normal relationship to each other, and when they have for each other only a wholesome affection that does not preclude love for others. No other man in the world is so undesirable as a husband as Mother's petted darling whom Mother has spoiled and made selfish, and who to his dying day will cling to Mother's hand as he did in his babyhood.

Such being the case, and your husband's infatuation for his mother being something that you will never be able to overcome, my advice to you is to have a showdown with him on the subject before there are any children to complicate matters. Tell him frankly that he has to decide whether he wants to be married to his mother or you, and that he has to choose between you and that he prefers Mother, you will be wise to accept his decision and

Difficult to Tell When to Try Finesse

Just yesterday I pointed out that many so-called bad guesses are, under close analysis, nothing but bad plays. It must not be thought that I maintain there is no such thing as a bad guess. Of course there is. Hundreds of them darken the life of every bridge player. Sometimes there is no possible indication as to which way to finesse. Declarer might as well toss a coin in the air. Usually, however, an intimate knowledge of one's opponents and their playing habits serves as an invaluable guide.

South dealer. East-West vulnerable. NORTH ♠ 5 2 ♥ K J 10 ♦ K 5 2 ♣ K 5 2 WEST ♠ A 10 9 8 ♥ Q 7 2 ♦ Q 9 6 3 ♣ J 9 SOUTH ♠ Q J 4 ♥ A 9 5 ♦ A K 5 ♣ A 7 4 3

The bidding: South West North East 1 no trump Pass 2 no trump Pass 3 no trump Pass Pass Pass

West opened the spade ten. East went up with the king and returned the seven spot. Since this located the queen and jack in declarer's hand, West allowed declarer's jack to hold the second trick, preferring to leave a possible third spade in East's hand for communication purposes. Declarer could count in top cards one spade, two hearts, two diamonds, and two clubs, a total of seven tricks. The eighth trick could be established by finding a 3-2 club break and conceding a club trick, and the ninth trick would materialize if declarer could guess which way to finesse hearts. Of course, these possibilities depended on the opponent's running no more than three spade tricks. In an effort to keep West off the lead (since if East had another spade the suit was not dangerous) declarer led a low club toward dummy, intending to put in the eight spot, however. Dummy's king was used, a low club was led to the ace, and a third round was conceded to East's queen. East returned a spade, and West collected the ace and nine. East and declarer discarded a diamond. West had discarded a low diamond on the third round of clubs, and now he returned the six of diamonds. Declarer won and cashed his established club, watching carefully for the defenders' discards.

It had required little vision on West's part to note that, with the heart ace marked in declarer's hand, a guess for the queen would later develop. Hence, on the fourth club lead West deliberately, although casually, discarded the deuce of hearts, his idea being to induce declarer to figure East for the heart queen. East furthered this attempted hoax by keeping all of his hearts and letting go his last diamond.

Now, faced with the necessity of guessing the heart queen, declarer had absolutely nothing to go by except his knowledge of the opponent's playing habits. Actually, a very difficult psychological problem was involved. Here was the way declarer had to reason: A beginner or poor player in West's position would not dream of discarding a heart from an original holding of three to the queen. A considerably better player would discard a heart, hoping to convey the impression that he did not hold the queen. An expert would do just what the beginner would do, hold on to all his hearts on the theory that declarer would not believe he was so naive. In other words, this would be the double-cross. Finally, a master player would sometimes discard a heart from the queen and other times fail to discard, thus putting declarer to a sheer guess.

Except in the last named case, all declarer would have to do was appraise his left hand opponent and determine to which group he belonged. In this case declarer shrewdly decided that West was just good enough to attempt a trap play, i. e., to discard a heart when actually holding the queen in an effort to induce a wrong finesse. Having come to that conclusion, declarer promptly laid down the heart act and led another heart through West. The queen appearing, it was all over!

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

Fancy Breads A loaf of fancy bread may be just the thing that is needed to round out the days menu in a delightful way. Frequently they are as well liked as cake. They are easier to make than cake and are more likely to prove nutritious and digestible. Fancy breads find great favor with people who have to carry their lunch and for party refreshments they are excellent. Quick loaf breads for breakfast furnish a wholesome sweet.

Date Nut Loaf 3 cups sifted flour 1 cup finely cut dates 3 teaspoons baking powder 1 egg, well beaten 1 cup milk 2 teaspoon salt 4 teaspoons melted butter or other shortening 1 cup brown sugar firmly packed 1 cup chopped nuts. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Add sugar and mix well. Add nuts and dates. Combine egg, milk, and shortening, add to flour mixture and blend. Bake in a greased loaf pan, 8-4-3 inches, in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. 1 hour.

Grape-Nut Bread 1 cup grape-nuts 1 cup shortening, melted 4 cups flour 1 cup sweet milk 2 cups sour milk 2 teaspoons soda. Soak grape-nuts in sour milk for 1 hour. Sift flour, sugar and soda together. Add flour mixture and blend. Bake in a greased loaf pan, 8-4-3 inches, in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. 1 hour.

Nut Bread 2 1/2 cups flour 1 cup chopped nuts 1 cup sugar 1 egg, well beaten 1 cup milk 3 teaspoons baking powder 1 cup shortening 1 teaspoon salt. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar, add nuts. Add milk and beaten egg to the dry ingredients. Four into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. 1 hour.

My Neighbor Says— To remove covers from preserve jars place the jar top downward in a dipper of hot water (not boiling) and allow it to remain five or 10 minutes. Remove the jar from the dipper. This will let in the air. The cover can then be removed easily.

Paint screens and porch furniture before putting away for the winter. They will then be well dried and ready for use when Spring comes.

After boiling macaroni, rinse it well in warm water to remove the excess starch and prevent stickiness.

Do not soak fresh fish in water before cooking. This treatment ruins the flavor and makes the fish soft.

Uncle Ray's Corner Tiger Sharks

If the term "man-eater" is taken to mean an animal which goes hunting around for human flesh, it is doubtful that we can give the name to sharks. It seems that they seldom, if ever, hunt for men as victims, but several kinds of sharks bite people when they find them. Yes, sharks are cannibals. They eat their own kind. However, it seems that a shark will not attack another shark of its size unless the other shark is helpless. Fishermen say that a shark caught in a fishing net may be partly eaten away by other sharks before the net is pulled up. In one case a captured shark was allowed to hang from a line alongside a boat anchored where many sharks were known to swim. Next morning the line was pulled up, and nothing was left of the captive shark except the head!

Tiger sharks are found chiefly in the Indian Ocean. They were so named because of their dappled brown stripes on the sides of their yellow-brown bodies. The stripes fade away as the fish grow older. Some of the larger tiger sharks reach a length of from 15 to 18 feet. Others are only from six to 10 feet long.

Although not so often accused of man-eating as white sharks, tiger sharks are among the few kinds of really dangerous sharks. In a later story I shall speak of the value of their skins, and the skins of other kinds of sharks.

BY ANGELO PATRI "Ginny's appetite is so poor. I can't get her to eat." "She looks well enough." "Yes, but she's whiny. Every mealtime I have a fuss with her about eating this and not eating that, until I'm just worn out. I dread meal-times." "Does she get much candy? I see she has a lollipop now and in half an hour she will be called for lunch, won't she?" "Yes, but what can I do? She absolutely refused breakfast this morning. The only way I could get her to touch it was to say she could have the lollipop. Just this once, I told her."

"Just this once," was all Ginny wanted that lollipop for, wasn't it? She eats one at a time. And if she eats it half an hour before lunch, having sucked it during breakfast, and up to the lunch time, she won't be hungry for baked potato and lamb chop.

Ginny preferred large lollies, the kind that are so big that she has to lick them small enough to go into her mouth. That way they last all morning and up to lunch time. Little ones disappear too soon. But a mouth filled with syrup is not the mouth that welcomes that baked potato and chop we have in mind. It is the sort that refuses solid food. It will take a drink of water, but little else.

Late in afternoon Ginny's stomach is achingly empty. She asks for cookies. "Now you know you should not have cookies between meals." Then to the critical relative, who embarrasses one so: "The child didn't eat any lunch. She must be starving. I'll give her a glass of milk and a couple of cookies."

"Don't want any milk," says Ginny, firmly, and there is no milk offered. The cookies disappear quickly and so does Ginny, satisfied for the moment. When the evening mealtime comes Ginny is not inclined to eat soup and cereal. She wants some of that nice pudding she saw on the table. "Now, Ginny, be good. Eat some of this good soup. One spoonful for mother. One for daddy, then. Now be good. Eat this first and I'll give you some of the nice pudding."

All the time this poor mother thinks she is teaching Ginny to eat.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY One good rule for overweights to follow is this—always leave the table hungry. Not too hungry, but wishing you could eat a second helping!

But there are other things to consider too. This problem of reducing is a serious one. I for one, do not advocate strenuous diets no matter what your weight. I do recommend exercise and cold showers.

Personally, I wish you would go to a reliable physician and get a slimming diet written out for you. But if you will not, and are in good health, then I can suggest certain foods for you to eat and certain foods for you not to eat. Here are general rules:

Overweights who wish to reduce should eat from 1,200 to 1,500 calories a day (Depending upon size, age, activity).

Two pounds loss of weight per week is sufficient. Foods you may eat: Skimmed milk or buttermilk, eggs, citrus fruits or tomato juice, raw vegetable and fruit salads, cooked green vegetables, lean meat or fish; some bread and a spec of sugar each day. Lemon juice every day; from one to three lemons. Steamed fruits for dessert. (Liver is allowed.) Coffee and tea without cream.

Foods you should not eat: Fatty meats, cream, rich sauces or desserts, hot breads or muffins; refined cereals; alcohol. Butter in large quantities; potatoes, rich milk, cheese, cakes or pastries.

It is possible to have appetizing meals from this prescribed menu. If you are hungry between meals, chew a raw carrot or drink a cup of tea without sugar.

Do Not Ignore Exercise As the cause for overweight is frequently too little exercise and too much to eat, daily exercise is most necessary for refashioning your figure. Walking, or out-of-door games are very desirable as they not only stimulate your blood circulation (which is slow in the overweight) but also tend to burn up energy which otherwise would settle into excess weight.

Send for my leaflet "Proper Measurements" and determine just where you must reduce to have a good figure. Then write me for specific exercises which will help you reduce where you need to most. I will send it to you free.

Is Shaking Hands Old-Fashioned? Dear Mrs. Post: Is shaking hands old-fashioned? I have a niece who says that I am ridiculously old-fashioned in offering my hand to people.

Answer: Although people shake hands much less than they used to—particularly younger people—there are still many occasions when handshaking is still an expression of courtesy. Men shake hands when introduced—always. A host and hostess too always shake hands with their guests when they arrive and when they leave. People who see each other seldom, shake hands when they meet—particularly when under the roof of a friend—in other words at a party. On the other hand, near neighbors who meet each other constantly on the street, or in their adjoining gardens, or even run in and out of one another's houses, do not shake hands under ordinary circumstances. And yet, if one is invited by the other to take a meal, or to come to a party of any kind, then the hosts and guests always shake hands. This is one of those things that we do instinctively without even knowing it.

Neighbor may come into our house three times to show us something or tell us something or to borrow or to lend and never think of shaking hands. But when arriving at a lunch party a few minutes later she shakes hands and says "How do you do?" We laugh sometimes when finding ourselves doing this, but we do it automatically as the result of lifelong habit—and it is

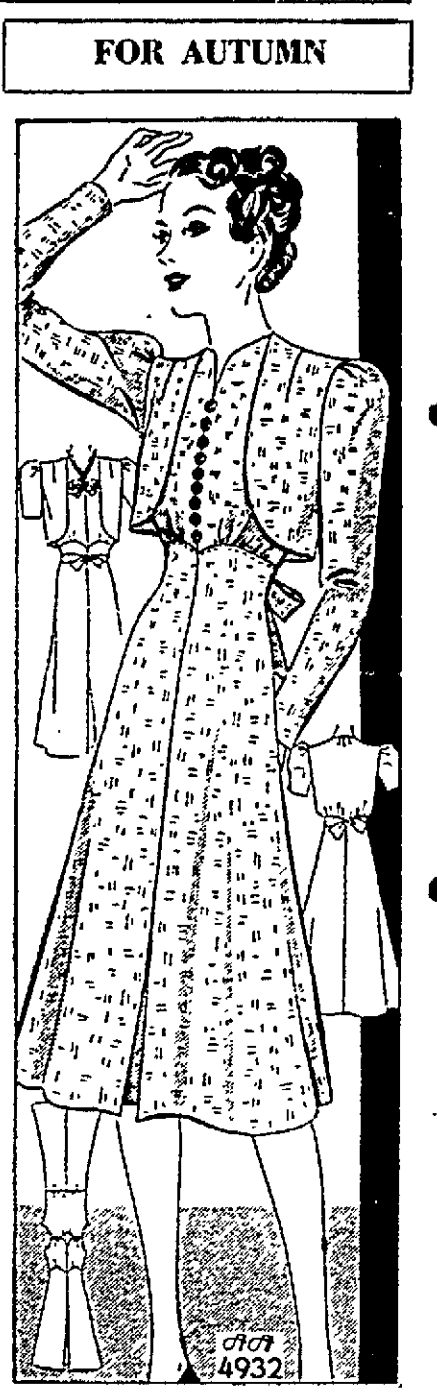

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

Ice Cream Dear Mrs. Post: Last evening I was at the house of friends and as the weather was very warm they sent out for ice cream and served it with cake. It was served just as it came, packed in individual boxes at the soda fountain. The boxes were put on generous sized plates, allowing plenty of room to put the cake at the side. But instead of spoons we were given a medium sized fork. The ice cream was solid, but just the same it certainly was strange to eat ice cream with a fork. Surely the hostess must have had some teaspoons in the house. The fork was useful for the cake, but I think the ice cream was the main dish and should have called for spoons. What do you think?

Answer: I don't see anything wrong with the choice of a fork. If the ice cream had been half liquid, then of course a fork would not have been as suitable as a spoon, but whether you eat ice cream with a spoon or fork is optional, whereas a spoon is the wrong implement for cake.

Old Gardener Says:

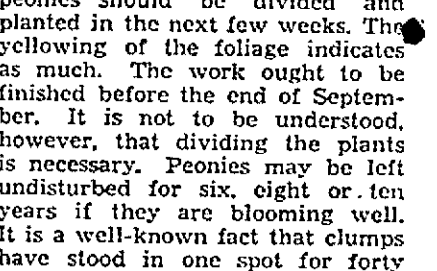

It is hardly necessary to say that peonies should be divided and planted in the next few weeks. The yellowing of the foliage indicates as much. The work ought to be finished before the end of September. It is not to be understood, however, that dividing the plants is necessary. Peonies may be left undisturbed for six, eight or ten years if they are blooming well. It is a well-known fact that clumps have stood in one spot for forty years without losing their capacity to flower freely. If the blossoms on any plants have been decreasing in numbers and size, dividing is indicated, and if young plants have failed to flower for two years or more, the chances are that they were planted too deeply. They should be dug up and reset, with the crowns only two inches under the ground, or a little more if the soil is likely to settle.

"You say," the examining magistrate said at last, "that you had never met the girl, Eve Monet, until she accosted you in the Carlton Bar?"

I nodded. Hugo and I had agreed that the truth was the thing, and the fairy-tale of the Le Touquet meeting could be only too easily disproved; but the peculiar expression in the eyes of the magistrate became more pronounced.

"Think again, Monsieur Lumsden," he begged me. "How unpleasant is it when one is found to have given false information, which impedes the end of justice?"

"That's exactly what I'm thinking," I told him truthfully, "and that's why I'm telling you that I never saw the girl in my life before."

He leaned still farther forward, till his face was within a couple of feet of mine. The fat commissaire had also hunched his chair towards me. There was a queer, waiting silence in the room.

"Then how is it," asked the judge very softly, "that you informed Monsieur Geiss that you had not only already met Eve Monet at Le Touquet, but that you also had a rendezvous with her last night after the show?" Monsieur Lumsden, I fear that you are not being quite frank with me. And I warn you for your own good that you will do well to speak the truth from now on. Admit that you knew this wretched girl Adam that we expected to see her last night."

I controlled my rising temper with difficulty. "Monsieur le Juge," I said, speaking as quietly as I could, "I have told you the truth, and if you don't choose to believe me, you can do the other thing. HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS CAMERA ACTION HAPPENINGS

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—One of the cruelest of movie practices—ahoy, you government investigators!—is the big welcome and publicity given every pretty newcomer to the lots.
The girl steps off the train or plane, contract in one hand, new bunch of robes in the other. The flash bulbs flare as she gets the Big Greeting, and then she's whisked off triumphantly in a luxurious studio car, presumably to plunge into the Glamour Pond for a big splash. She feels like a queen and she is one—for a day.
Maybe it even lasts a week. Bubbling with excitement, she goes to the still gallery and they take enough pictures to fill a catalogue. The lensers take her to the beach and snap her in "play poses"—if the legs are passable—and pretty soon she sees her picture in the papers—if the legs are knock-outs. And then she goes to training school. Or she just waits. Or both.
Two months ago I talked to Dorothy Comstock. She's just been signed after a scramble in which three studios participated. She was the girl Chaplin applauded at the Carmel little theater. From all the excitement I figured she'd go into a picture. The next week at the latest. I saw her again the other day, visiting the "Angels With Dirty Faces" set and watching Cagney and O'Brien work. She looked wistful when I asked her what was up. "I don't know when I'll get a part," she said. "I wish I did."
Cagney overheard. "Don't worry," he comforted. "They have to 'discover' you about a dozen times before it takes."
It's the waiting that's torture. I've a hunch Dorothy—they're calling her Linda Winters now—is going to check. But for one of her there are dozens of others who get the same build-up only to find themselves ushered out—at the end of the first contract period—via the back door. No flash bulbs then, and no roses, and the studio cars are all busy—carrying in new prospects from the trains and planes.
A refined form of this common cruelty is that reserved for the girls they are "saving for something big." Director William Keighley told me about a girl he'd spotted as a possibility and tested, using extreme care so that her dramatic deficiencies could be overshadowed by her photographic beauty. The test was so good they signed her with flag-waving.
Some time later Keighley thought of the girl for a small role in one of his pictures.
"Oh, you can't have her for that!" he was told. "We're saving her for something big!"
"Something big?" in this case, turned out to be the gate. There's nothing bigger than a studio gate—to the girl with a one-way ticket to the great outside.
Arleen Whelan was a girl they saved for something big. And they gave her such a build-up that everybody expected more than she could give. Arleen's going to be a star—she's got that personality—but I wonder if she's luckier than Lynn Barr, another Zanuck corner. Lynn is just stepping into leading roles after three years of "bits" and training. She's learned teeth and training. She's learned the hard way—the way Arleen will have to learn.

Technocrats Will Meet At Wettengel Building

Beginning Friday, members of Technocracy, Inc., will meet at the George Wettengel building at 317 E. College avenue instead of at the meeting.
Appleton Woman's club, according to F. J. Leonard, director of the Appleton unit of the organization. Last night a motion picture, entitled, "The Technology of Glass," was shown at the group's regular meeting.

ONLY 1 OUT OF 12 MEN can get this SHAVING BARGAIN

The local supply is limited to that quantity. No more can be had. This is the closest thing to a "give-away" price ever offered on these nationally-known products. The object is to actually demonstrate and sample the world's best shave to the men of this city. Get YOURS before they are all gone.

(See Offer Below)

A SPECIAL PLAN TO ADVERTISE THE IDEAL SHAVING COMBINATION!

GENUINE SCHICK INJECTOR RAZOR
Exactly the same famous razor now nationally advertised and sold in the $2.00 De Luxe Kit (with 20 Blades) for ...

8 GENUINE SCHICK BLADES, LIFEBOUY SHAVING CREAM, GIANT TUBE. Holds 5 1/2 more moisture than ordinary lather. Soaks whiskers soft. Soothes skin. Same as now selling for 25c

ALL THREE FOR 59c
a strictly limited time, in this vicinity, at the almost "Give-Away" Price of ...

WHY MORE THAN A MILLION MEN ARE NOW USING THE INJECTOR RAZOR

OLD-STYLE SHAVE... The combing "teeth" of this razor guard are not designed to stretch the skin taut enough ahead of the blade edge—and have a tendency to "ridge" the skin surface. Blade can nick the top of ridges, cause bleeding and smarting. And, because whisker bends over as blade strikes it, the razor seems to "pull."

SCHICK INJECTOR SHAVE... Designed to flatten and stretch the skin, the Schick guide bar is solid, has no "teeth." Skin is stretched taut, giving a smooth shaving surface. Whiskers are held stiffly upright so blade can cut them cleanly at the skin line. Result: no nicks, no pull—no even "against the grain."

Double-Thickness Blades... Schick Blades are able to take a sharper edge and hold it. Each blade individually honed, stropped, inspected. More shaves per blade.

Sealed in a bath of oil... The blade edges are actually suspended in space; no paper covering which would rub and dull them.

Automatic Blade Change... Give the "trigger" a pull and push—out shoots old blade, in goes a fresh one! Nothing to unscrew, twist or reassemble.

A rinse, and it's clean! Save minutes every day. No need to wipe and dry the Schick Injector Razor after every shave... a flush under the faucet, and it's ready to put away.

LIFEBOUY SHAVING CREAM
For Toughest Beards—For Tenderest Skins
Lifebuoy's extra moist, soothing lather takes all the "yumph" out of wiry whiskers—because it soaks them soft. Grand for tender skins, too, because it's 20% milder than other leading shaving soaps. There are 120 to 150 smooth, clean, FRESH shaves in the big red tube.

The Best Shaving Cream You Can Buy
Plus the World's Finest Razor
With 8 Blades in Automatic Injector

Loomis "Reluctantly" Kills New London Plan

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison — An opinion from the attorney general's office, offered "reluctantly" according to Attorney General Orland S. Loomis, Monday blasted a promising business promotion scheme originated by the Merchants Exchange of New London and since adopted by many other small communities in that section and elsewhere in the state.

The opinion condemned as a lottery a device known as "New London Day Plan." The "reluctance" of the attorney general was explained with the statement that the plan is "obviously aimed at promoting the business interests of communities and to establish them as trade centers."

"As the scheme contains the elements of a lottery, it cannot be approved, however meritorious the motive. If there is any widespread demand for exceptions to the anti-lottery statute, that demand must be met by the legislature within the sphere of legislative action in view of the constitutional prohibition against lotteries," the attorney general commented.

Briefly, the plan provides for the setting aside of one day in each week when there is a drawing of numbers to determine the winners of cash prizes. The funds are usually contributed by local merchants and commercial interests, and the public is invited to participate by filling in application blanks at local business places. The names of the winners are drawn on the day the awards are made.

Two kinds of prizes are awarded. One is the grand prize, and the others are smaller, street awards. The names of the winners of the latter are called on the street, and the winner of the grand prize is relayed to the winner. The winner must be present in the business place in order to win the award. In the event that the winner is not present, the prize accumulates from week to week.

A published outline of the plan, the copyright on which is held by the New London Merchants' association, has been sold to other local business organizations in Wisconsin lately. Author is F. A. Gradiar, newspaperman.

Wage-Hour Bill Is Explained to Club

Washington University Faculty Member Is Rotary Club Speaker

New London—The wage-hour bill recently enacted by congress to be effective in October was discussed by S. W. Marsh, 227 E. Beacon avenue, for the benefit of the New London Rotary club at the Elwood hotel yesterday noon. Mr. Marsh is associate professor of accounting at the Washington university of St. Louis, Mo. He covered the new law thoroughly and impartially, pointing out the probably good and bad effects of the new legislation.

The club celebrated the birthday anniversary of Henry Monroe yesterday and his birthday cake was taken by Ormond W. Capener, the proceeds going into the club's eye-glass fund for needy children.

There will be no meeting of the Rotary club next week because of Labor day.

Monsieur Geiss assures me that it was not so—it was you who told him."

At that I completely lost my temper. "Monsieur le Juge," I said, "that's a damned lie. I had never heard of these three gentlemen in my life until Monsieur Geiss mentioned their names. I had never met the girl before yesterday morning, and that's the truth and the whole truth. If you don't choose to believe me—if you take Monsieur Geiss's word against mine—that's your funeral, not mine. Now, as there anything more you want from me? Because if not, I'll be going."

He sighed, shrugged and got to his feet. "I must wait you, Monsieur Lumsden—speaking not as an official, but as an older and wiser man—that you are taking a course for which I think you will be sorry. I understand that you are staying with Monsieur Stern? You realize, of course, that for the moment you must not leave Cannes?"

I glared at him. "For my own satisfaction, I shouldn't dream of leaving until you've found the murderer," I swung on my heel and marched out through the farther door.

From the fact that neither Geiss or the Baron had reappeared in the waiting-room, I had already guessed that there must be a second exit to the place of inquisition, and now I found myself at the head of a stone stairway that led directly down to the entrance. As I walked down the stairs, I reflected that it was as well I had not met Geiss again, for if I had, should certainly have broken his neck.

I was still raging as I came out into the square, but a brisk stroll up the empty, shuttered main street and down through a maze of byways did a lot to restore my equilibrium, and by the time I came out into the Allee de la Liberte I was in a more normal frame of mind. I sat down at a cafe table that commanded a view of the entrance to the Hotel de Ville and prepared to wait for Hugo.

"A Nervous Wreck"

I was just starting on my second glass of beer when he appeared, but I left it to his fate and sprinted after him. He halted as I came up and mopped his forehead.

"Phew!" said he. "I was never built to tell stories outside the covers of a book. Why the devil did I ever attempt to pull Geiss's leg? He's got back at us good and proper, and what with keeping quiet about poor Pat's message and trying to clear you as far as the girl is concerned, I'm all of a dither."

"You've heard the story he's circulating?" I inquired, and he nodded.

"Certainly I've heard it. For the last ten minutes I've been saying nothing but 'No, sir, no, sir, no' to all they said to me." He took my arm and drew me along the quay to where the Hispano lay. "You're surprisingly cool about it," he added respectfully. "Myself, I feel a nervous wreck. By the way, it seems she was a founding adopted at the age of twelve by some American vaudeville artists who took her to the Argentine. Nothing more was heard of the girl until she landed back in France last February, and the rest of the tale we know. You see, you were right and I was wrong. My beautiful dream of a finely-bred young American was all moonshine, and the Yankee accent was superimposed on the French one after all."

He broke off sharply. "And who the devil," he demanded with a change of tone, "is adorning my motor-car?"

I looked. The Hispano stood before us, sleek and black in the shadow of the old houses that bordered the quay; and reclining against one fender was an elegant figure in scarlet shorts and a green and white checked shirt.

The creature's eyes were shaded by a visor; his feet were encased in gaudy espadrilles and as we came

Federal Workers May Not Provide Campaign Funds

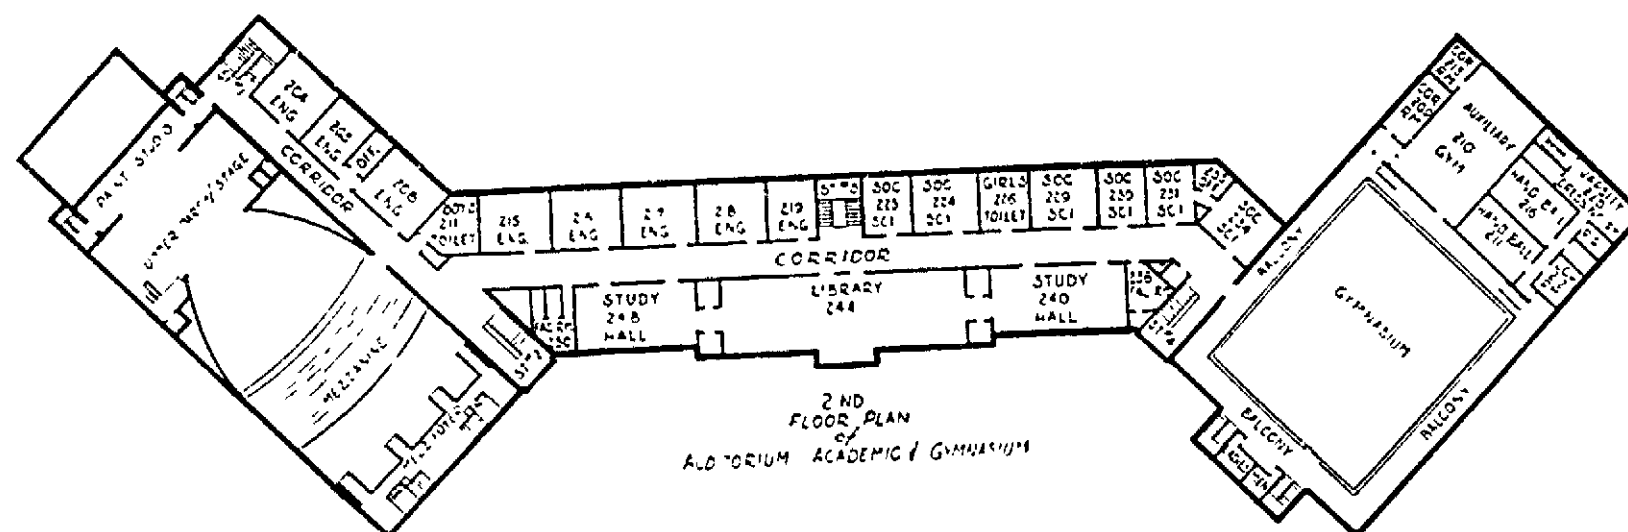

Have Been Solicited by
New Deal for Several Years, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Senator Sheppard's committee on campaign expenditures is having an uncomfortable time consisting mostly of Democrats who do not relish the task of condemning their fellow Democrats, certain facts stand out nevertheless which show that either the department of justice doesn't know the criminal code of the United States, or it conveniently overlooks any violation now a days.

Federal employees have been solicited under the New Deal directly and indirectly for several years. Refuse has been taken in the theory that if a contribution by a federal employee is "voluntary," it is all right and that the law refers only to solicitation which amounts to coercion or undue influence. But a careful reading of the text of the law which has been brought to public attention by the activities of Senator Sheppard's committee shows that the Democratic National committee has been receiving many contributions in violation of the existing criminal code. The statute says:

"It is unlawful for any senator or representative in, or delegate or resident commissioner to congress, or any candidate for, or individual elected as, senator, representative, delegate or resident commissioner, or any officer or employee of the United States or any person receiving any salary or compensation for services from money derived from the treasury of the United States to directly or indirectly solicit, receive or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any assessment, subscription or contribution for any political purpose whatever, from any other such officer, employee or person."

LIBRARY, STUDY HALLS ON SECOND FLOOR OF NEW SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Students of Appleton High school this year will be doing most of their studying on the second floor of the new 'million dollar' structure where the library and two large study halls are situated. The floor plan above shows how the floor looks and where the rooms are. On the left in the picture is the upper part of the auditorium, the mezzanine foyer, the mezzanine seats, the upper part of the stage and the paint studio. On the right are the gymnasium balcony seats, the auxiliary gymnasium, hand ball and squash courts and the varsity dressing rooms. Besides the library and study halls in the academic section, the English and social science classrooms will be on the second floor. H. H. Helble, high school principal, suggested that students who are to attend the high school this year clip the above plan and familiarize themselves with it. A plan of the third floor will be published in the Appleton Post-Crescent tomorrow. (Post-Crescent Photo) mittee, and that through the Jackson day dinners held throughout the country many federal employees contributed for political purposes varying sums, that these sums were received by the postmaster general and that he addressed the federal employees by radio at these dinners.

The records will also show that the contributions of federal employees were made in 1936 for the benefit of the presidential campaign and yet the criminal code says it is unlawful for "any person receiving any salary or compensation for services from money derived from the treasury of the United States" which certainly describes the president—to "be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any assessment, subscription or contribution for any political purpose."

The president signed a lot of campaign text books with his autograph and these were sold to many persons who received "compensation for services from money derived from the treasury of the United States."

There have been some mistaken notions among federal employees that, if the solicitation did not take place on federal building premises, it was lawful, but the criminal code clearly says it is unlawful for a federal officer to be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving "directly or indirectly," so it would appear that no solicitation of federal employees or those who receive money from the government is proper.

Government Contracts

Many of the solicitations were carried on among private firms and companies which have had or now have government contracts, and the criminal code would seem to make it unlawful for contributions to be received from them.

The senate campaign expenditures committee has indicated it will propose a strengthening of the Federal Corrupt Practices act and the criminal code, but it will be asked what value such amendments will be if the existing law is not enforced.

Incidentally, it is difficult to see how the WPA workers who recently announced they would get up a $50,000 fund to elect or defeat congressmen and senators of their choosing will avoid violating the criminal code. But, on the other hand, they probably do not expect to be prosecuted, any more than the corporations were which contributed to the New Deal, and presumably, as Harry Hopkins stated recently, the WPA workers are "naturally" 90 per cent for the New Deal. Hence the $50,000 will be used mostly in behalf of New Deal congressmen and senators, which alone makes prosecution highly unlikely by the present department of justice.

Industrial Crisis Becoming Serious At San Francisco

San Francisco —(AP)—An industrial crisis affecting many businesses, and more all-embracing than any in San Francisco since the 1936 maritime strike, grew in gravity today.

More than 150 warehouses and liquor rectifying plants have closed. Others were expected to shut their doors today in a "hot cargo" dispute between operators and CIO warehousemen. More than 2,000 workers were idle.

A showdown neared in the threatened strike of A. F. of L. clerks in 27 major department stores. Negotiations were broken off between the A. F. of L. shoe and textile salesmen's union and operators of shore and men's furnishing stores, involving the possibility of a strike. A crucial meeting of the A. F. of L. grocery clerks union with chain grocery stores was set for Tuesday.

Navy Heads Preparing New Warship Estimates

Washington —(AP)—Navy department officials said yesterday they had begun preparing proposed appropriations for new warships to be submitted to the next congress. They said the work had not crystallized into definite recommendations.

Under the Vinson-Trammell Building act, normal construction for the next fiscal year would be about 18 warships, including 2 battleships, 2 cruisers, 8 destroyers and 6 submarines.

This schedule may be changed slightly to meet increased needs in one category as compared with lessor needs in another, officials said. The program will include also a number of auxiliary vessels.

Callander, Ont.—(Canadian Press)—A scroll bearing papal blessings for the Dionne quintuplets was presented to their father, Oliva Dionne, Sunday by Frank C. Blied, of

The presentation was made on the steps of the priest's house at nearby Corbeil following mass.

Country folk of the vicinity gathered around while Blied presented the scroll on behalf of the Catholic Central Verein of America, of which he is president. The Dionnes will keep the scroll in their home where the quints were born four years ago. Blied was made official bearer of the gift during a tour of Europe last June when he received an audience with the Pope.
